HAUPT'S RESIGNATION.

The ex-General Manager of the Northern Pacific Talks Freely.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 2.—General Manager Haupt, in an interview with a reporter of the Associated Press last evening, said that his resignation was entirely due to the policy of radical retrenchment adopted by the Northern Pacific, which practically tied his hands, and prevented the proper running of the road. At a meeting of the stockholders it was decided to cut off all possible expenses, and he had received instructions to cut down the force. They complained that the expenditures were too much in excess of the receipts. General Haupt explained this by stating that the road was turned over to the operating department by the construction department in a very incomplete condition. In fact, as fast as the parallel lines were laid, so bad was the condition of the roadbed, though trains could be run over it, they could not be run with any degree of safety or speed. The road was miserably ballasted, the cuts were narrow, no stations nor water tanks were built, no side tracks were put, and, in fact, nothing was done to put the road in condition. This had to be done, and the cost of it had to be met by the operating department, supposably out of surplus earnings which did not exist, instead of by the construction department. This, of course, made the expenses very heavy. Another reason was that practically all work of the year has to be done in June, July and August. After August it is difficult to get men to work on the road, as the harvest fields pay so much better, and after harvest wet weather begins, and it is impossible to do any work until the ground dries in the spring.

THE POLICY OF RETRENCHMENT.

General Haupt further said the policy of retrenchment was being carried to an extent that would be detrimental to the interest of the road. The roadbed would become very bad by being neglected, especially considering its present condition, and as to the discharge of 460 men in the repair shops at Brainerd the result would be that the yards at that point would be crowded with disabled engines and dismantled freight cars, which would greatly impair the efficiency of the road. Of course this would reduce the temporary expenses of the road to a large extent, but instead of being a saving there would be an actual loss, and next spring, when the necessary repairs had to be made, the expense would be more than heavy enough to counterbalance the saving now. General Haupt also stated that his office force had been cut down to a point which precluded efficient work. These were the reasons, in brief, which actuated him to tender his resignation.

Vice-President Oakes was interviewed as to the successor of General Haupt, and said there would be no successor, at any rate at present. While intimating that there might be some changes as to other officers of the road Mr. Oakes said there would be none at present.

RAILROAD NOTES.

RECOGNIZES NO AUTHORITY BUT CONGRESS.

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 2.—The answer of the Kansas Pacific Railway Company to the petition in a quo warranto case now pending in the supreme court was filed yesterday with the clerk of that court. It alleges that the railroad is not a corporation credited by any law of the territory or state of Kansas, and claims no rights, privileges or franchises as such. It alleges that it was created by act of congress; that by virtue of rights conferred by that act, it was organized, built its lines of road, and under such authority it has ever since been operated, and still continues to operate its roads. That the railroad constructed by it is on a different line from that designated by the territorial act, and that the consolidation it has entered into with the Union Pacific and the Denver Pacific railroads, was made under the authority found in acts of congress, and not under an act made by the state. It denies any right of the state to forfeit its franchises, and claims that the paramount control over it exists solely in the government of the United States, and closes with a general denial that all allegations in the petition are not expressly admitted.

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT'S GUARANTEE.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—[Special.]—The Canada Pacific railroad directors have scooped in a million dollars by buying the company's stock on a margin, previous to the announcement that the government had guaranteed them a 3 per cent. dividend on the capital stock. The government, at a cabinet meeting at Ottawa yesterday, definitely agreed to accept the company's proposition to loan the government $1,500,000, at 4 per cent., which will be utilized in the redemption of the natural debt, on condition that they guarantee a per cent. dividend for ten years. Five hundred thousand dollars will be deposited at once, and approved security will be given for the remainder.

ALL THE EXCEPTIONS SUSTAINED.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 2.—Judge Nixon of the United States circuit court to-day followed up his opinion of yesterday, in the case of Dinsmore against the New Jersey Central railroad, with an order that all exceptions of plaintiff to defendant's answer be sustained as well taken, and that the clerk of the court expunge from said answer such scandalous and impertinent matter excepted to. Costs will be taxed.

NEGROES DISSATISFIED WITH THEIR OWN CARS.

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 2.—Adjutant General King reports that the negroes are dissatisfied with the exclusive cars for their accommodation and says train men on the Texas Central, where the system has just been inaugurated, were compelled to take colored people out of cars assigned to the whites.

LARGE INCREASE OF EARNINGS.

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—The earnings of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road for the nineteen months ended October 1, were $5,500,000, an increase of 30.4 per cent. The Southern Kansas Railroad Company for the same period has net earnings of $629,000, an increase of 33.6 per cent.

JUDGE FORAKER APPOINTED COUNSEL.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 2.—Judge J. B. Foraker has been appointed by the United States circuit court counsel for the receiver of the Toledo, Cincinnati and St. Louis railroad.

THE STOCK MARKET.

A Very Quiet Day in Wall Street—The Market Dull and Firm.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Governments, lower. The market excited no feature to-day, except a general firmness maintained in spite of the dullness, with the exception of Texas and Pacific, which is weak, partly on the reported small earnings for the year, and partly on the avowed determination of the income bondholders to refuse scrip and try to compel payment of interest in cash. There has been no specially weak stock on the market to-day. The general change in prices from last night's closing prices is a fractional decline, but the close was strong, and generally at the highest prices of the day.

Mining stocks are very dull. Horn Silver sold at $6, Ophir $5 25, Mexican $3 25, Eureka $4, Chrysolite $1 15, Sutro tunnel $15@16. Sales, 30,165 shares.

MONEY, STOCKS AND BONDS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The money market was easier at 2@3; closed at 3; prime mercantile paper, 6@7; sterling exchange, bankers' bills, firmer at $4 81½; demand, $4 84. Dry goods imports for the week, $1,339,000.

Threes, 100¾; 4½s, 114⅜; 4s, 121¾.

American Express, 89; Canada Southern, 51¾; Central Pacific, 65; Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, 24¾; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, 14¾; Denver and Rio Grande, 24½; Hannibal and St. Joe, 88½; Kansas and Texas, 20½; Lake Shore, 98; Louisville and Nashville, 49; Michigan Central, 90¾; New Jersey Central, 84½; Northern Pacific, 29¾; Northwestern, 22¾; Ohio and Mississippi, 26¾; Reading, 60½; Rock Island, 120; St. Paul, 97¾; Texas Pacific, 20¾; Union Pacific, 88; United States Express, 58; Wabash Pacific, 20; Pacific 6s, 30; Erie, 28; New York Central, 26¾; Pacific Mail, 37¾; Panama, 98; Fargo, 12; Western Union, 78½.

WASHINGTON CITY.

A Red-Hot Washington Scandal.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—[Special.]—Yesterday William McSynchson, one of the assistant supervising architects of the capital, filed a paper in court making charges against his wife, which, when fully developed, will make a great scandal. The paper referred to is in answer to a bill of Laura E. McSynchson, in which she prays to have a divorce granted her in Fredericksburg set aside. Defendant says that soon after his marriage in 1877 he learned that his wife had been for a long time criminally intimate with a treasury department clerk. In March, 1881, she committed adultery with a member of Congress, whose name and residence defendant is ready to give when required. During March, 1881, she committed adultery in her own house, with a man now in the bureau of engraving and printing, and afterward committed adultery in her own house with a clerk in the pension office. The names and addresses of these persons can be furnished at the proper time.

Report of the Paymaster General.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The annual report of the paymaster general of the army to the secretary of war shows that the receipts for the last fiscal year were $15,490,846; disbursements, $15,362,164. The remainder has been deposited in the treasury since the last report. Five officers of the pay department were retired, having attained the age of 64, one died, and one was dismissed for misappropriating public funds.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Indications for the Pacific coast, fair weather.

ACCIDENTS.

ONE MAN KILLED AND SEVERAL INJURED.

CLARINDA, Ia., Nov. 2.—The cannon ball train over the Humeston and Shenandoah road, going east, was wrecked Wednesday night, at a trestle work over West Forked river, five miles east of Shenandoah. The engine, baggage car and a coach rolled down an embankment fifty feet. The sleeper remained on the track. The engineer was killed, and the fireman and express messenger seriously injured. The wreck is ascribed to the displacement of a rail west of the bridge by train wreckers, for the purpose of robbery.

FOUR YOUNG MEN DROWNED.

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 2.—This city is very much excited to-night over the tragic death of four young men who went across the bay to the peninsula on Wednesday, and never returned. To-day a sail boat was found, bottom up, in the bay, with three guns and a satchel belonging to Eyster. To-night the clinker was found near the light-house with the bow stove in. The bay is being dragged and a pair of rubber boots have been found, but no traces of the bodies. The wind was blowing a gale when they started.

THE TURF.

NOT SO GOOD AS FIRST REPORTED.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—In the Providence race of yesterday there was evidently an error. Yellow Dock's record was not a double-team record, but a record with a running mate, and the record of 2:10½, made to-day by H. B. Winship, was made under the same conditions and with the same running mate. The double team record of both horses is about 2:16½.

THE FRANCO-CHINESE DIFFICULTY.

Matters Daily Becoming More Complicated—M. Tricou's Dispatch.

PARIS, Nov. 2.—It is reported that the first secretary of the Chinese legation has stated that war between China and France is now certain. The cabinet council discussed General Bouet's account of the French position on the Red river, measures which it is advisable to adopt for strengthening their position, and the question of the amount of funds which may be necessary to bring the campaign to a successful issue. Nothing was definitely decided. The chamber of deputies will probably be asked to vote a new credit. In his account General Bouet states that at least 10,000 men of all arms, infantry cavalry and artillery, will be required, especially cavalry, because the movements of the Black Flags are very rapid.

PARIS, Nov. 2.—General Bouet expresses strong hopes of being sent back to Tonquin to finish the work of the expedition. He believes Sontay and Harghow can be easily captured. Bacninh, however, which is strongly held, cannot be so easily taken. Mail advices went to prove to General Bouet that the leaders of the Black Flags were Germans. The Black Flags are well supplied with artillery. Just before leaving General Bouet heard of the arrival of a strong Chinese force, with Krupp guns. If the Chinese intervene, he says, it will be necessary to send large reinforcements. General Bouet concludes by saying it is impossible to form an approximate idea of the numbers of the Black Flag.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—A Paris dispatch says it is reported that the Chinese legation are considering the question of demanding passports.

PARIS, Nov. 2.—Le Temps semi-officially points out that Li Hung Chang's disavowal of Marquis Tseng was not an official utterance of the Chinese government, but simply Li Hung Chang's personal expression.

PARIS, Nov. 2.—The Chinese legation officially denies the truth of M. Tricou's telegram. Opposition newspapers twit Premier Ferry with distorting facts in order to obtain a momentary and temporary malformity.

CLOSE OF THE LABOR CONFERENCE.

PARIS, Nov. 2.—The international labor conference closed to-day. Henry Broadhurst, member of the English parliament and honorary president of the conference, telegraphed his friends as follows: "I think we English have done well. Everything is now on our lines. I never saw men improve as fast as our French colleagues."

PARIS, Nov. 2.—During a supplementary meeting of the international labor conference this evening, a brisk scuffle occurred between a number of delegates and some thirty anarchists, principally Italians. The latter were forcibly ejected from the hall. The principal features throughout the conference have been prominent English and female orators.

He is a member of the secret service board, and his visit was in connection with anticipated Fenian movements. A COLERIDGE CALIGRAPH.

R. J. Burdette.

Well, Lord Coleridge, chief justice of England, is here. He is accompanied by his son Gil. His full name is Gilbert, but we always call him Gil. They expect to be guests of the Burlington bar or bust club, they haven't decided which. The party came ashore in Elbridge Gerry's yacht. Lord Coleridge is six feet long and about 60 years old, and shaves his face clean every day, including Sunday. His baggage was passed ashore without examination, under the disguise of luggage, a name applied to it by himself. He does not know how much. He calls his valises "bags," and his trunks "boxes," and spoke of a baggage-car as a "luggage-van." He is not so intelligent as he looks. He was nearly choked to death at luncheon by swallowing a large H, which he insisted on putting in his oyster, although he was told repeatedly that it wasn't him-tum to do so. On being shown a dude, he remarked that he had committed several of them to the asylum for life just before leaving England. He had one of the best layouts for an extended lunch route ever engaged on this continent, the banquets being located all the way from New York to Ogden, both in Canada and the United States.

His lordship was very much surprised on learning that the marquis of Lorne was not governor of the United States.

"Had we no governor, then?" he asked.

"Oh, yes," we said.

"And who was governor, if the marquis was not?"

And we told him Ben Butler. He was just about the governorest governor that ever governed, we said. And his lordship was pleased, and said he had never met Governor Butler, but had read his "Analogy" and "Life of Hudibras."

He said he had a letter of introduction to a man named Greeley, a reporter on some newspaper, he understood. After luncheon his lordship called a cab and ordered the driver to take him to Kansas, and was greatly disconcerted on being told that the cabs only ran as far as the Grand Central depot, and that Kansas was at least thirty-five miles out of the city. He expects to remain in this country three weeks. He would return to England to-morrow, but will be detained here somewhat longer, collecting material for a history of the United States, which he is going to write.

RAILROAD CONFERENCE.

Meetings of the Transcontinental Association and Railroad Agents in Relation to the Contract System, Settlement of Disputes, Etc.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—The Tribune prints the following account of the meeting of the Transcontinental Association: Even if the meeting is enabled to begin deliberations on the contract system and other important questions to be decided, it is hardly probable that it will get through its work this week; and other meetings will probably have to be held next week. The general passenger agents were to have met yesterday afternoon for the purpose of having another conference with the roads east of the Missouri river regarding the settlement of a dispute about the division of rates, but as the general managers had not yet been able to go to work by that time, an adjournment was taken until 2 P. M. to-day. The meeting is to be held at the Pacific hotel. It is the general opinion that the arrangement made at San Francisco, by which the same rate there is charged by all possible routes is impracticable, and it is believed that the agreement will be so changed as to make the rate to that point via Portland higher than by direct routes; and the rate to Portland and Oregon and Washington territory points, higher by way of San Francisco than by the Northern Pacific and Oregon Short Line. Such an arrangement, it is believed, will find but little opposition among roads east of the Missouri river.

THE COMMISSION QUESTION.

The meeting of the general passenger and ticket agents of the Missouri river roads will be held in this city to-day, for the purpose of acting upon the agreement recently made by the San Francisco agents of those roads regarding the payment of secret commissions in San Francisco, and also in regard to the proposition of the commissioner, Daniels, for squelching scalpers in Denver, and preventing them from cutting rates at that point. After many methods of disastrous competition at San Francisco between the eastern lines, the agents of various roads came together and agreed to pay hereafter for street commission in San Francisco a uniform rate of one dollar.

A strong effort was made to stop the payment of street commissions entirely, but the Alton strenuously objected on the ground that it could see no reason why the payment of commissions should be abolished at San Francisco and not at other points. In the interest of peace and harmony a representative of the Alton finally agreed to a uniform commission of one dollar. This action is to be ratified or rejected by the general passenger and ticket agents to-day. Another strong effort will be made to entirely abandon commissions at San Francisco; but it is doubtful whether the Alton will change its mind and it is therefore probable that the agreement made by the San Francisco agents will be confirmed. Commissioner Daniels will try to induce the roads east of the Missouri river to make an agreement to-day by which they will stop payment of street commissions on Denver business, and not allow scalpers to demoralize rates hereafter.

THE COMMISSION QUESTION ACTED UPON.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—While the representatives of the transcontinental association were waiting to hear from G. W. Ristine in regard to his acceptance or rejection of the commissionership of that association, to which he was elected yesterday, the general passenger agents of Pacific lines and their eastern connections met to-day and took up the mooted question of paying commissions. It was decided to allow a commission of $3 on first class and $2 50 on second class tickets on Pacific coast business only, and none on other business.

RISTINE LEAVES FOR CHICAGO.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 2.—G. W. Ristine, elected transcontinental pool commissioner, left Plainsville this afternoon for Chicago. He says he cannot tell whether he accepts the position until after a conference with the meeting.

CRIME.

CRITTENDEN REBUKED BY THE GRAND JURY.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 2.—The grand jury made a final report this afternoon, and returned indictments against Joseph B. McIntyre, state coal oil inspector; Ed. Butler, a democratic politician and so-called boss, and David W. Caruth and Dr. Frank J. Lietle, police commissioners. The indictments allege that these parties conspired, and combined to obstruct the administration of the law with reference to gambling, lotteries and gift enterprises, and controlling police appointments and carrying them out in their schemes, political and otherwise. They are charged further with attempting to induce ex-Chief of Police Campbell not to interfere with gambling, lotteries, etc.; and failing in this they removed him from office. The report is very severe in language, and censured the governor for granting pardons, especially to convicted gamblers, and recommends the withdrawal of the pardoning power from the governor and the appointment of a state board of pardons. It further recommends that the power of appointing a board of police commissioners be withdrawn from the governor, and that they be appointed either by the mayor or circuit judge.

TWENTY ONE RIOTERS ARRESTED.

READING, Pa., Nov. 2.—Deputy Sheriff Strunk and a posse of policemen have returned from Gibraltar, five miles from here, the scene of the railroad riot, having in custody twenty-one rioters. They will have a hearing in the morning. They are all Hungarians, employed on the new Schuylkill branch of the Pennsylvania road. This morning contractor Hausman paid them off and discharged them, because they were rebellious and demanded higher wages. They got drunk, intimidated other workmen, and tried to persuade them not to work. They next attacked the laborers' quarters, and tore down shanties and broke and destroyed everything they could lay hand on. The posse pursued them on the road, and caught up with them at Birdsboro, where all were captured except one or two. Pistols were taken from several. Others carried dangerous looking knives. A charge of riot and intimidating workmen will be preferred against them. A man and woman were assaulted, and the latter badly injured.

BARN BURNING IN INDIANA.

CORUNNA, Ind., Nov. 2.—For some time farmers of this neighborhood who own self binding harvesters have been receiving letters through this and adjacent postoffices threatening vengeance because these machines reduced the demand for farm laborers. These threats took the form of incendiary barn burnings this week. Several barns have been consumed already, including two last night. One of these was set on fire at 3 o'clock this morning, after the owner had guarded it until 2. There is much excitement, and the farmers are forming a vigilance committee.

A WEDDING ENDS IN A TRAGEDY.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—[Special.]—At a German wedding on a dairy farm near here last night a tin pan serenade was tendered the contracting parties. The noise was ordered stopped by the groom and his friends. The order not being complied with a fight with rocks ensued, followed by pistol shots. Herman Hilbers, aged 21, one of the wedding guests, was shot in the side, evidently accidentally, by a friend. A doctor was called, who said the wounded man would die.

MONSTER POLITICAL MEETING.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The following dispatch from Jamaica, dated this morning, has been received: "A monster political meeting last night at Kingston was a great success, these being immense demonstrations against the present system of government."

Corsets and Age.

Why have women persisted for generations in wearing an instrument of torture (theoretically) condemned by the wisdom of ages? To listen to male and female sages one might suppose that some hundreds of years ago woman had suddenly been seized with a desire to emulate the wasp in form, and had since more or less successfully risen, by the aid of ligatures, endeavoring to merely cut herself in two.

With all due deference to the rational and hygienic in dress, I would suggest that there is more method in the madness of the tight-lacing woman than this. If anybody will take the trouble to examine the corset of a fashionable stay-maker, such as are sold in first-rate houses for the modest sum of £5, the inquirer will find that, saving perhaps a somewhat exaggeratedly slender waist, this article of dress follows pretty closely the beautifully rounded form of a young woman of from twenty to twenty-five.

Now it very frequently happens that at the time when a fashionable girl is expected to make her debut in society, nature has for various reasons denied her the various items necessary to make up that indispensable requisite for ball-room success—a pretty figure. The fashionable corset is, therefore, had recourse to, and with this useful foundation to build upon, an artist dressmaker can do wonders to supplement nature.

Later on, when the delicate girl has developed into the faded matron, with flaccid muscles and a decided tendency to indistinctness of outline, what so useful as the well-made corset into which the somewhat dilapidated figure is run as into a mold? Torture it may be, but she has her reward. Do not her friends say of her, "How wonderfully Mrs. So and so keeps her figure."

It is useless to hope that the present generation of society women will tear off their corsets and exhibit themselves to a wondering world; our hope lies in the future. While Lady Harberton has been crying in the wilderness, the leading female lawn-tennis players have devised for themselves a dress—pretty, feminine, graceful and healthy. Those who have watched the free and graceful movements of young English girls on the tennis ground may hope the time may come when the best of them will no longer, like Meredith's delightful little Carola Grandison, sigh, "I'm afraid I'm a girl. I used to keep hoping I wasn't," but will be content with their own happier lot in an age when boating, swimming and tennis will have so braced and developed their figures as to enable them to laugh at and discard the aid of Messrs. Worth & Co. To quote once more from Meredith, "The subsequent immense distinction between boys and girls is less one of sex than education. They are drilled into being hypocrites."—Corr. London Times.

Measuring the Intensity of Light.

A new method of measuring the intensity of light was proposed at a recent meeting of the British Royal Society. The standard of reference is a small surface illuminated to a given intensity, and the mode of comparison is the light given by a small glow lamp, whose light of incandescence is raised or lowered by increasing or diminishing an electric current. The amount of illumination is measured by the amount of current flowing, so that the number of amperes gives the degree of illumination. The standard surface is that illuminated by a British "candle" at 12.7 inches, and this is the same as that produced by the French "bec" at one meter distance. In this way sunlight, moonlight, and the amount of illumination at any part of a room or building, or that distributed over a street or area at any time of day or night, can be measured without any reference to the source of light or its disturbance from the point light.

CALIFORNIA.

Captain Huntington Awarded a Gold Watch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—Captain Huntington of the steamer Mexico was somewhat astonished yesterday morning on his arrival from Victoria, by a communication from the government of Canada, forwarded through the department of state, and accompanied with a valuable gold watch, on which was inscribed, "Presented to Captain Thomas Huntington, by the government of Canada, as a token of appreciation for his humanity in rescuing the crew of the bark Milton of Nova Scotia." The rescue mentioned took place about two years ago, while Captain Huntington was in command of the steamer Newbern, in the Mexican trade. He took the crew off the sinking vessel, and brought them to this port, and the Canadians have acknowledged the humane act as stated.

A Remedy for Polygamy Suggested.

The Evening Post publishes an interview with Captain John Carman, who has passed many years in Utah, and is familiar with the Mormon question. Carman says the Edmunds' bill only had the effect of binding the Mormons more closely together, without conferring any benefit on the Gentiles. As a cure for polygamy, he advises prosecution of the women. If a mother cannot produce a certificate of civil marriage, she should be arrested and locked up until she tells who is the father of her child. All Mormon immigrants should be forewarned of this on their arrival at Castle Garden. This plan would destroy the Mormon polygamists' capital in trade.

Sporting Notes.

A heel-and-toe walking match, between Dan O'Leary and an unknown, supposed to be Hart, a colored man, and two unknowns of the Pacific coast, for $2000, has been arranged to take place in this city. Half the amount was put up to-night at the office of the Pacific Life. The date of the match is not yet fixed.

The receipts of the Muldoon-Whistler wrestling match last evening were $2420. The stakes were $2000. After deducting expenses, $1895 were this evening paid over to each of the two wrestlers. It is expected another match between them will take place as soon as Whistler's broken shoulder bone has healed.

Over the Northern Pacific.

[Special.]—On the arrival of a shipment of beer from the east, over the Northern Pacific, to a firm in this city, the cargo was piled on a large truck, the sides of which were placarded with "From Milwaukee to San Francisco, over the Northern Pacific in thirteen days." The truck thus decorated paraded the principal business streets, provoking considerable amusement and satisfaction among merchants.

Hayman, who has recently returned from the east, where he has secured a large number of attractions, proposes to bring all his companies hereafter by the Union and the Northern Pacific railroads. RAILROAD MATTERS.

The Northern Pacific's Attitude at the Chicago Meeting, Etc.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—[Special.]—A telegram was received by a merchant of this city this afternoon, from Chicago, outlining the subject under discussion at the railroad conference, following the election of pool commissioner. The question of maintaining special contracts and the division of freight was taken up, and provoked considerable heated discussion, as between the Central Pacific and connecting lines and the Northern Pacific. The policy of the latter road is to fight any and all measures that will interfere with its entry to San Francisco, even under the conditions imposed upon it at the meeting held here about two months ago. It was expected that the main fight would be made at this evening's session or to-morrow. Propositions submitted for consideration have failed to bring about any definite understanding, and judging from the tenor of the dispatch, which was shown to an OREGONIAN correspondent, to-morrow will be the decisive day.

JOHN MUIR TO CONFER WITH SAN FRANCISCO MERCHANTS.

Telegraphic correspondence has been going on between some of the local merchants and John Muir for some time, with the result that Mr. Muir wired last night that he would come to San Francisco immediately upon adjournment of the meeting, to confer with shippers here. Within the past four days the feeling in regard to railroad matters has experienced a very important change in favor of the Northern Pacific. So much so that your correspondent is in a position to state that the largest importing and exporting house on the coast, and one of the largest in the United States, is fully in sympathy with it as against the old lines. Interviews on subjects affecting freight rates, with prominent merchants, took place yesterday, and the most of them are in receipt of cipher messages outlining the progress of the railroad meeting. Mr. Muir is expected here on the 9th inst.

There being many British subjects in the Rocky mountains, Earl Granville has been petitioned to establish a consulate in Denver and a vice consul in Salt Lake.

A SOCIETY SENSATION.

Rumored Engagement of Jay Gould's Son to Miss Astor.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—There is a flutter among members of the upper middle class over the reported attentions of George Gould, son of Jay, to Carrie Astor, daughter of one of Gotham's most distinguished millionaires. Miss Carrie Astor is said to be a charming young lady, and the sentiment which has brought her and Mr. Gould into sweet communion is said to have nothing whatever to do with his wealth. For that matter, the young lady is quite as rich in her own right as her reputed lover can ever hope to be. "To be candid," remarked a prominent member of the Manhattan club, "she has more money than George can spend, leaving the matter of his patrimony out of the question altogether."

"What is thought of the alliance?" asked a reporter.

"So far as I have heard it meets with general approval. Young Gould is more popular than the old man, and is seen more frequently in the clubs. He is a liberal fellow, but not a spendthrift by any means."

"Is it really a love match?"

"I do not know, but there is no doubt that Jay Gould had a hand in bringing the young people together."

"What will be the effect of the marriage?"

"It is hard to tell. It will certainly unite two colossal fortunes and will give to the name of Gould the only thing it now lacks—social caste."

In the Union and other clubs, as well as in prominent up-town cafes, the probability of the marriage was freely discussed this evening, to the exclusion of politics and everything else. There were not a few who threw a doubt upon the matter and pooh-poohed the idea of a man of Mr. Astor's blood permitting his daughter to link herself with the son of a speculator. The arrival in New York yesterday of a famous Parisian modiste, coupled with the fact that she went to the home of Mrs. Astor, lends a strong coloring to the report of that young lady's intention to change her name. "He looks to me," said a friend of young Gould, "as though he expected everybody to congratulate him. I would not hesitate to bet $20,000 even that that marriage is not a month off."

"Are the preparations under way?"

"All I know is that the real purpose of the Atalanta's construction will be shortly revealed. Those who were foolish enough to imagine that Jay Gould bought that yacht for his pleasure will be convinced of their error."

The house then resolved itself into committee of the whole on the auditor's report, Brooks in the chair. Various parts of the report were then referred to appropriate committees.

Shaw introduced H. B. 73, in relation to trespasses, which was referred.

In the afternoon the first business before the house was C. B. 17

TO CREATE THE COUNTY OF LINCOLN.

The bill being ready for final action, Stitzel rose and addressed the house in a most forcible and eloquent manner. He announced himself as the representative of the counties of Stevens and Spokane, and therefore concluded that it was in order for him to make remarks on the bill. He was opposed to the bill for the very good reason that his constituents desired him to do so. He then asked the house to refer to the facts in the case. Although this bill had been the most talked about of all the measures introduced at the present legislature yet it was the least understood. Four years ago Spokane Falls was the county seat, but after the general election it was decided that Cheney had obtained the majority vote as such. Then the matter had been carried into the courts, and there it was decided that Cheney had received seventy-five votes over and above all others. Spokane Falls then refused to accept the situation and surrender the records, and Cheney thereupon forcibly took possession of them. This was the commencement of the war. This is the reason why gentlemen are here for the purpose of lobbying on this subject. He (the speaker) had been nominated in 1882 as representative on this issue. He visited Spokane county, and the question put to him on all sides was, "Are you in favor of dividing Spokane?" He stated to them his position as being opposed to the division of the county, and he was prepared to prove to the satisfaction of the house that this was the issue. He then read the following letter written by Dr. Whitehouse to the Cheney Sentinel in relation to the matter: "In response to the inquiry as to my position on the question of dividing the county, I am free to state that I am opposed to any immediate division of Spokane county or any agitation of the question of changing the county lines. As a citizen and taxpayer, I am fully convinced that it is not to our interests to divide the county, and unless it was clearly shown to me by petition that a majority of the people were in favor of such division, I should oppose any proposition to change the present boundaries." The gentleman then proceeded to show that a remonstrance had been presented against the passage of the bill, signed by 1800 taxpayers. This must be looked upon as the voice of the people, and why (said he) should you seek to set aside what they demand in tones of thunder? A petition has also been received, and since both these documents had come to hand it had been his steady aim and object to find out from both documents, who were taxpayers and who were not. I have been continually before the committee that had charge of the bill, endeavoring to get at the truth, so that you might vote understandingly. I found on the petition, out of 684 signers, only 97 appear on the tax roll of Spokane county, and of these 96 live in Sprague. The gentleman then read the affidavit of Alex. Abernathy to show that from 50 to 60 per cent. of those who signed the remonstrance were taxpayers, and their names were on the roll. It was shown that each list of names attached to the remonstrance was sworn to in due form to prevent any deception. It has been stated that Spokane county was without a representative within these walls with the exception of Dr. Whitehouse in the council. The gentleman stated most emphatically that he himself was the representative of the people in the house, having received 345 majority as such. He had only been a few days in the capitol when he was approached with flattery, and every effort made to get him to change his opinion, but he utterly refused. Then he and his friends were threatened. He then denounced the lobby in strong language, and proclaimed that when he knew he was in the right he would never flinch from his duty, and when wrong he would confess it. His constituents were nearly opposed to the bill, and he must obey their instructions at any risk. Referring to the "indignation meeting" said to have been held at Spokane Falls, the honorable gentleman asked if he had ever conducted himself toward the house in any other than the most gentlemanly manner? Members have been bored and bored about the bill until they have been nearly bored out, thus retarding needed legislation.

On motion Mr. Smallwood was invited within the bar, and addressed the house in defense of the bill. The gentleman did not for one moment question the sincerity of Mr. Stitzel. He believed that gentleman was acting in the very best of good faith. He explained that the petition of 700 names represented as many taxpayers as could reasonably be expected on such a petition. According to the last census there had been 556 voters and estimating the increase at 50 per cent. there would now be 834 voters, which would not show such a disparity of numbers as might appear. He commended the committees for the care and attention bestowed on the bill ever since it was referred to them. Mr. Stitzel could not possibly know the wants of the county, as he lived one hundred miles away from it. The gentleman had confirmed Mr. Stitzel's nomination himself at the same time the famous resolution opposed to dividing was tabled. The tabling was to get it out of the way, and it was done for that and no other purpose. Several affidavits were then read by Smallwood, relative to the signatures of taxpayers.

Stitzel again spoke in answer to some of the remarks made by Smallwood. He had resided in Spokane county for nine years, and knew the wants of the people as well as the last speaker. Is a representative to be heard in the interests of his constituents, or do you prefer to listen to outsiders? As soon as Davenport was adopted as the county seat, quite a change took place amongst the friends of the bill. There was then a row in the camp. He claimed that the people, through their representative, ask that no change be made. Kincaid spoke on behalf of the committee, after which Kuhn reviewed the matter generally, and Stitzel then said a few words in regard to the meeting lately held at Spokane Falls, of which the people of the Falls were already ashamed. He stated that he had now done what he believed was his duty to his constituents, and he was ready to risk the consequences. The vote was then taken, and while in progress Mr. Miles explained his reason for voting for the bill. He was sorry that anything of a personal nature should appear in reference to this or any other bill. He, for one, could testify to the gentlemanly deportment of Mr. Stitzel ever since his arrival here. His manner toward all had been remarkable for courteousness and affability, but he had always found that the matter of dividing large counties like this one took place sooner or later, and therefore he would support this bill now. The vote stood as follows:

Ayes—Messrs. Barlow, Blackwell, Brooks, Clark, Cupid, Kincaid, Kuhn, Martin, Miles, Shaw, Shoudy, Young, speaker—13.

Noes—Messrs. Beisner, Brining, Foster, Goodell, Hungate, Lloyd, Ping, Stitzel, Warren—9.

So the bill passed, and the house adjourned.

NOTES.

During the discussion on the bill for dividing Spokane county, the governor, secretary, and a large audience of ladies and gentlemen were present, and seemed much interested in the debate.

Complaints are heard on all sides of the horrible stench arising from the China wash houses on Fourth street, and to day it was almost unbearable.

Heavy showers have been falling for a couple of days.

Hint to Nihilists.

San Francisco Post.

We are glad to learn that a gastronomical college has been established in the east, and upon the head of its institution we desire to call down the unanimous blessings of this dyspepsia-tormented country. An institution where scientific cooking can be taught to men—women haven't time to attend to such frivolities nowadays—is what this republic needs a heap more than at ~~c~~ correct congress, which is saying a good deal. It has long been a matter of astonishment that the nihilists have been fooling around after the czar with glass bombs and that sort of unreliable instrument of destruction, without ever thinking of introducing an American cook into the Winter palace. It is possible the communists are ignorant of the fatal properties of fried beefsteak. Can it be that those ominous assassins are unaware of the deadly effects of the persistent overuse of saleratus in biscuit? Do they fail to grasp the significance of underdone cabbage, or omit to perceive that a thoroughly tough, lard-saturated pie of the period discounts nitro-glycerine and dynamite as a remover of despots? There is no doubt about it that what the Russian revolutionists need is one of those terrible emissaries of death known as an American boarding-house cook, and we can lay our hand upon one who could put the entire Romanoff dynasty under the daisies—the beautiful, beautiful daisies—in less than a week, and not half try.

WALLA WALLA UNION.—On Saturday, November 10th, there will be a twenty-five mile race at the driving park for a purse of $100. Five entries have been made as follows: Al. Robert A. Carpenter, one of the pioneers of Oregon, residing near Harris' bridge, Washington county, died on Wednesday after about one week's illness. Mr. Carpenter was a highly respected pioneer and for many years has held a number of offices, such as county commissioner, justice of the peace, etc., and was one of the leaders of the Christian church in the neighborhood. He was greatly esteemed by a very large circle of friends and his death will be a wide source of grief. He was near three score years and ten.

Says the Albany Democrat: Last Friday noon Mrs. J. H. Foster gave a dinner to several of her aged friends, in honor of her mother, Mrs. Burkhart, which brought together a really remarkable company of old people, the youngest of whom was 63 and the oldest 89. There were fourteen present, besides Mr. and Mrs. Foster, and Mrs. Gray. The united age of the fourteen was more than the age of Methuselah, the average being 75 years, quite remarkable for a company of so many. Eleven of the women were widows, and all of their husbands but one died in this county, an interesting fact. Their husbands were all prominent men and all but one of the fourteen are pioneers. All have children and grand children, and all but one in this county. As they have all seen over three score years of life we have no hesitation in publishing their ages, certainly one may feel proud of advanced years: Mrs. Nancy Martin, 69; Mrs. Rebecca Burkhart, 85; Mr. John Smith, 87; Mrs. John Smith, 83; Mrs. A. M. Fisher, 81; Mrs. J. E. Beatly, 76; Mrs. R. C. Hill, 74; Mrs. S. M. Holms, 72; Mrs. M. J. Hannon, 71; Mrs. Hattie Church, 80; Mrs. Rebecca Young, 89; Mrs. Dr. Miller, 66; Mrs. Wilson Blain, 64; Mrs. W. Q. Stewart, 63. Total, 1051; average, 75.

Last Saturday a Canadian named Joseph was drowned near Port Townsend. He had been employed at a logging camp, and was missed. Search was made and the body found. It was supposed that he had been out working on the boom and had fallen in. Being unable to swim, of course the chances were against him—especially in the icy, cold waters of the straits. He was a very respectable gentleman and had the esteem of all who knew him. His relatives live somewhere about Walla Walla. He was about 35 years of age.

A seminary under the management of the Baptist church will soon be established at Centerville, Lewis county. Following are the officers: President, Hon. B. S. Green, Seattle; Secretary, E. R. Butterworth, Centerville; Treasurer, H. Hanson, Centerville. Trustees, D. T. Pierce, Seattle; C. Crosby, Centerville; D. M. Ross, New Tacoma; J. A. Weith, Seattle; Mrs. A. W. Jones, Puyallup; D. Rondebush, Chehalis; W. C. M. James, Centerville; Marion Meeker, Puyallup; James Tullis, Centerville. The school will be called Grace seminary.

Seattle Herald: Early Tuesday morning a pistol bullet, evidently a spent shot, entered the window of the bedroom in which Mr. J. Furth and his wife were sleeping, shattering the glass and lodging in one of the doors. Mr. Furth's residence is near the corner of Eighth and Pine streets, a closely built part of the city, which is overlooked by the table-land above. It is probable that some person fired the shot from the hill, thinking there was no danger of injuring anything, and it traveled farther than expected. Mr. Furth has no idea that anyone desired to kill him, as he is not aware of having any enemies.

OLD TRINITY.

The Treasures and Charities of the Famous Old Church at the Head of Wall Street.

Correspondence Washington Post.

"The wealthiest church in America is a sham and a shame. It is a landlord for infamous tenants. It uses its revenue to make sinecures for persons in the ring. Its services are simply forms without a congregation worth mentioning. It is altogether a reproach to true religion." The man who told me these things was a minister, and the reader has already guessed that Trinity church was the accused corporation. I did not take his word for it. The clergy are not often liars, but they are frequently mistaken. My first move was to go to Trinity last Sunday morning. If you have ever been in New York you have hardly failed to see the edifice in its conspicuous place at the head of Wall street displaying time for the hurried speculators with its sightly clock and pointing them heavenward with its 284-foot spire. Within I found plenty enough of congregation to fill all the seats. The people were a mixture of down-town poor and up-town rich with visitors from out of town. The worship was altogether musical by means of preliminary chiming bells, a choir of sweet-voiced and carefully trained boys, and a wonderfully clever chanter at the altar. This gifted tenor priest is named Joseph W. Hill, and his voice is understood to be his religious fortune, so largely does his vocal ability loom above his other qualifications. When I have added that the organ playing is considered so good that a printed programme of it is posted at the entrance, you will comprehend the excellence of that chanting the relatively holds its own in the admiration of the auditors. Hill is reputed the most skillful Protestant Episcopal chanter in the country. He is a devotee to this feature in Trinity worship, and takes great pains in the cultivation and perfection of his talent. In no respect is the ritual here allowed to fall below perfection. There is an abundance of money in the treasury to meet all expenses that the vestrymen choose to incur.

But about that treasury? I cannot give much information, because I have failed to get it. It is not for the public to know the actual value of the enormous Trinity estates, which consist—besides unproductive church property—of hundreds of mercantile and tenement buildings in the heart of the city. The facts are carefully withheld. Pray do not conclude that I am falling into a reckless habit of making unsupported accusations. That Trinity is in the unrestricted control of a small ring is absolutely true; but the ring is composed of men too rich and respectable to steal. There is not the slightest justification for such a notion. A charge of corruption in the handling of Trinity's millions would be ridiculous. Why, then, is there any concealment of the figures? To maintain dignity. The wardens and vestrymen are accountable to nobody. They are not going to let themselves down to public explanation. The furious onslaught of public opinion in the Anneke Jans matter, twelve years ago—when the claims of a former owner of the property were boisterously put forward by the multitude of heirs—did not stir these officials up to self-defense, and nothing that could occur is likely to. They need no exculpation among their friends, and they are by fortune and social usage led to despise public opinion. The annual reports of Trinity affairs contain no explicit information as to its income, further than that about $80,300 is raised by pew rentals and collections. The vestry will not permit the publication of the figures as to the real estate. I asked the rector, the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix, if he would personally give them to me.

"If we were to cut up that graveyard into building lots," he answered, pointing out the window at the crumbling old stones that surround Trinity, "and do the same to St. Paul's burying ground, we might get together an income somewhere near what people suppose it to be. The prevalent ideas on the subject are wild. We shall not undertake to correct them."

"But about what is the income?" I insisted.

"Half a million dollars!"

"And what is done with it?"

"We entirely maintain seven churches, paying the salaries of eighteen clergymen, seven organists, twelve sextons and over a hundred singers; six free parish daily schools, with eighteen teachers; two medical dispensaries; a system of charities in each of our parishes, and we contribute, besides, to a large number of deserving institutions."

I have no doubt that the revenue of Trinity is expended in religion and charity to a preponderating degree, and that the amount absorbed in sinecures is much smaller than the boasts, by their policy of imperturbability, lead carpers to state it.

CIVIL RIGHTS IN THE SOUTH

Reduced to plain matter of fact the recent civil rights decision of the United States supreme court leaves the personal status of the colored man just where it was before. That decision simply says that the constitutional amendment in reference to personal and civil rights prohibits state legislatures from enacting discriminating laws against the negro and that, no state legislature having thus enacted, there has been no occasion for congressional legislation in the premises. In other words the negro's civil rights, guaranteed to him by the constitution have not been denied by any state, so far as the record shows, and not until one or more of the states shall attempt to deprive him of those rights will congress have any authority to act. The negro's civil rights are guaranteed by the constitution the same now as before the supreme court's decision so far as the national government has the power to enforce them.

Still there are difficulties under which the colored people labor when discriminated against in regard to their civil and political rights. In a letter recently addressed to a colored man in Arkansas Attorney General Brewster indicates some of these difficulties. One of the causes of complaint on the part of the colored people of Arkansas as set forth in a communication to which the attorney general's letter is a reply, was that they were not permitted the same facilities granted to white men for entering upon the public lands in the state. Another complaint was that colored citizens were oppressively fined and unjustly imprisoned. Mr Brewster expresses deep regret that there should exist grounds for such grave complaints but he tells the writer that the only remedy lies in an appeal to the supreme court of the United States, that the matters complained of are under the exclusive control of the state, and that the only way to determine whether the state laws are in contravention of the constitution of the United States is through an appeal to the supreme court.

The recent decision of the supreme court leaves no doubt that this is the situation that now exists, but in what condition does it leave the colored people, particularly those of the southern states, as regards their rights? When the equal protection of the laws is denied them they must first sue in the state courts, with all the discouragements which prejudice throws in their way. They know before they begin that they will not get justice there and their presumption in seeking to defend their rights may be made a pretext for such 'warnings' as will deter them from making the attempt at all. But even if they had the will and the determination to proceed, how many of them would have the means to press any question no matter how important, to a final decision in the highest court in the land? Such a remedy to such a class is a practical denial of justice altogether. It is plain that since the wisdom of the late decision of the supreme court is being so highly commended especially by southern journals, the people of that section should at once set about exerting their influence toward securing such state action as will give the colored citizen an equal chance with the white. That decision confirms the principles embodied in the civil rights bill and applies them to the district of Columbia and the territories. Let the southern state legislatures show their appreciation of the decision in its entirety by passing a bill similar in its provisions, and thus placing that whole section in harmony with the spirit and intent of the federal constitution. Will the democratic national convention give us a plank to that effect.

INFLUENCE OF A GREAT LIFE

The old convent of Augustinian monks at Wittenberg has been turned into a museum of memorials of Luther and his friends and is called "Luther House." On the 10th of the present month it will be four hundred years since this great historical character was born. More than all others he is the man who made Germany a nation. The extraordinary attention paid to his memory upon this fourth centenary of his birth shows the grandeur of his proportions as an historical figure, and is a revelation to the world of the deep hold of his work upon the mind of Germany. The celebration of his birth is occupying about two months' time. It may be questioned whether history affords a parallel to it. How entirely must he have been the representative man of his nation to receive this homage after such a lapse of time! When it is noted what Germany is doing now in recognition of the life and work of this remarkable man, one may see how a writer could say, without much exaggeration of statement, that he was "the soul of his country." And again: "He was so human, so full of all kindly impulses, generous thoughts, boldness, enthusiasm, and yet with the faults and weaknesses common to such natures that he must have made his mark on his times had he never been driven from the Roman church. But when the man's wonderful powers, capacities, thoughts, feelings—everything he had, were transfused and informed with the divine influence he became a leader such as the world had not seen since the days of Paul the apostle." His translation of the bible into the tongue of the people was the great nationalizing force in Germany. It created German literature by giving it a language. It helped to fuse the dialects of all the German states into one German tongue. Its influence, and that of Luther's hymns, may be traced in a powerful and vivifying stream from the fountain-head straight down to the present day. They constitute, next to the record of his life, Luther's great legacy to the German people. But that is a force and inspiration that will not cease. Here is immortality, even in this world. A great man is a seed. He lives through ages in new growths, which blossom and bear fruit for evermore.

An old dial in the temple London bore the curious motto, "Begone about your business." The maker, wishing to know what motto the benchers required for the dial, sent his lad to ascertain it. The boy applied while the benchers were dining, and one of them annoyed at the unseasonable interruption said shortly, "Begone about your business." The lad, thinking that this was the desired motto, reported it to his master, and the dial accordingly bore this novel inscription as long as the building upon which it was placed remained. The old United States cent which is usually called the Franklin cent, because its maxim was suggested by the philosopher bore another legend, "Mind your business." This has often been misquoted and altered to "Mind your own business," which of course, has a different sense.

Washington is now getting the asphalt for its streets from an asphalt lake in the Isle of Trinidad, on the South American coast. This asphalt makes a street as hard as stone and it does not soften or crack under the rays of the sun. For two years it has been used and it is found far superior to the old mixture of tar sand and asphalt, which the city used some time ago. The lake fills the flat top of a mountain and is black, smooth and hard enough to walk on. When a strip is dug out the bottom gradually rises and soon the surface is level again. Thousands of tons have been taken away, and the supply seems inexhaustible.

The Scott law is to be again brought before the supreme court of Ohio on a new test case. If it should be declared unconstitutional as its opponents hope, it will probably be attributed to the result of the late Ohio election and prohibitionists, in common with the democracy, may claim their full share of responsibility for it.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE

Sir James Hannen chief justice of the divorce courts of England who since his return from the Northern Pacific excursion has been traveling quite extensively through our states expresses the opinion that this country ought to have uniform laws to regulate marriage and divorce. Our present system under which each state and territory has its own peculiar laws on these subjects makes misconduct and fraud extremely easy greatly to the injury of individuals and to the harm of society. The facility with which divorces may be obtained in many states, is particularly scandalous. The subject though long before the country, has never received the attention it ought, but just now there is an effort to bring it with more force and clearness before the public mind.

It is quite fitting perhaps that the first organized movement to secure an improvement in public sentiment and legislation on the subject of divorce should be made in New England. Statistics show that divorces are more numerous in that section than any other. Whether this peculiarity arises from the fact that the Yankee girls so largely outnumber the men that they are prone to pick up worthless material as husbands or because the men have an inclination to give all the spinsters a chance at matrimonial experience there are no means of knowing, but it is certain that from some cause or other, the marriage tie is easily unloosed in the New England states and it is time there was some effort made to arrest the social demoralization which follows from the separation of parents and the breaking up of families. But the evil is not confined to any section or state. It is spreading with alarming rapidity and unless arrested will shake the very foundations of church and state. When the Roman republic was nearest its downfall the disregard of the marriage tie was most prevalent and when divorces can be had in this country for the mere asking or, at most by the liberal use of money and the employment of the arts of fraud and chicanery the nation may justly be regarded as on the downward course toward social anarchy.

It is certainly startling that in less than half a decade the number of divorces granted in New York should have more than doubled. There has been a large increase in this and other states, and so long as the laws remain as they are the evil will continue to spread until the marriage contract will be regarded as of no more binding force than dicers oaths. The proposed amendment to the federal constitution, giving congress the power to enact uniform marriage and divorce laws would do much to mitigate the evil but the press and the pulpit should labor unremittingly to create a more wholesome public sentiment on this subject. The laws in most of the states are not as efficient as they should be but the trouble is they are not obeyed nor enforced. The courts are greatly at fault in permitting evasions of the law and if divorce cases were scrutinized as they should be not half the decrees now granted would be made. The time has come for a general leveling up everywhere on this subject and it is to be hoped the efforts of the New England reform league will be crowned with abundant success. We are far from saying that divorce should not be granted except on what is called strictly scriptural ground, for so long as there are men who degenerate into worthlessness and brutality there will be women who are entitled in justice to lawful separation from them but there should be such laws and such administration thereof, as will put a stop to the common practice of obtaining divorces on fraudulent pretenses or insufficient grounds.

WHO IS NOT TO BLAME

We have a letter from Yamhill county in which THE OREGONIAN is criticised for a severe attack upon the pioneers who settled up the country in the face of great difficulties and dangers. The writer it would seem has mistaken the criticism by this journal of certain industrial conditions in the state as an assault upon the pioneers. Certainly it was not so intended. To no class does Oregon owe so much as to its original settlers. They overcame the most trying hardships in coming and finding a wilderness here they literally made it blossom. It was a fruitful wilderness but to tame it was no easy task. They turned the prairies with the plow they built roads in every direction they planted orchards, they built school houses and churches in short, they thoroughly subdued and civilized the country. And they did what those who follow them do not do—they produced all that the country needed to eat. They did not import their beef from San Francisco, their vegetables from the Sacramento valley their butter from Illinois their pork from Ohio and a dozen miscellaneous articles from a dozen other sources. The country, under the hand of the pioneers lived upon its own industry, and it prospered as it has never prospered since. Many of the pioneers have passed away, and but few are still "in the harness," but these few are among the most thrifty and progressive men of Oregon. Ralph Geer of Marion county C P Burkhart of Linn James and Robert Imbrie of Washington Robert Henderson and Medorem Crawford of Yamhill A J Dufur and others of the pioneers may be cited as among the men who lead in every progressive movement in farming. The settlers of the country were of good mettle and their works show it. No THE OREGONIAN does not criticise the pioneers, but those who occupy the land in their stead. Their degenerate successors in possession of the soil by lack of judgment and lack of enterprise have made the country poor. They have compelled consumers to send away from the state for food millions of dollars which ought to have been retained in it and added to its permanent wealth. And we believe that thoughtful men, the state over, will say the criticism is just.

Butler's opponents in Massachusetts confidently predict his defeat by 10 000 to 20 000. The address of democrats to democrats signed by fifty or sixty gentlemen of highest standing and widest influence, urging the defeat of Butler on the ground that their party cannot afford to lend aid to the low sort of political morality which Butler represents it is believed will take many votes away from him. Still inasmuch as about all the lewd followers of the lower sort out of both parties are supporting him he will get a very heavy vote and may be elected. The standard of political morality in Massachusetts is not so high as it once was else Butler would not even be a candidate.

The Best Recipe for a Long Life

St James Gazette

Apropos of Sir Moses Montefiore whose approaching entry into his hundredth year is a subject of such general congratulation what is the best recipe for a very long life—supposing a man to consider it an object worth attaining? Milton laid stress on "the rule of not too much" which is no doubt an excellent one but vague in its application. Moreover, Milton followed his own advice and yet failed to live sixty-six years. Fontenelle whose life embraced almost exactly a century (from February 11 1657 to January 9 1757) was formally asked his opinion on this weighty question and replied that he ascribed his length of days to two maxims he had laid down for himself and rigidly adhered to—the first, "everybody's right," the second "everything is possible." The late Canon Beadon was less sententious and would laughingly explain that he had reached a 100 simply by never wearing an overcoat. It was either he or another centenarian who said he had never eaten cold meat, but always hot, and thus saved his digestion from premature exhaustion owing to double work. It is related of Lord Mansfield that whenever a hale and hearty old man gave evidence before him he would question the witness in a friendly way as to his habits with the result that he found every one to be an early riser. The topers are said to have been as numerous as the water-drinkers which is probable enough the latter being an extremely limited section of the English people in the eighteenth century.

A BIT OF SECRET HISTORY

How Wirz, the Andersonville Jailer, Was Sacrificed by Secretary Stanton

Rev William John Hamilton rector of the cathedral at Mobile Ala. who was one of the four priests admitted to the stockade at Andersonville prison to minister to dying soldiers was one of Wirz witnesses during the trial in November 1865, and he related recently some of the secret history of the trial that has never before been heard. Father Hamilton who is a benevolent-looking man of 60 was constantly at Andersonville after the carnival of death commenced and while he admits the horrors and cruelties he defends Wirz who he says was the most humane keeper of a prison he ever met and was constantly assisting in acts of charity which would have sent him to the front if discovered by his superiors.

"It is true," said Father Hamilton "that the sufferings among prisoners were terrible but Wirz, poor fellow was no more responsible than I and so when he was arraigned in August 1865 I went on to Washington to do what I could in his behalf. During the trial Captain Wirz was suffering from various diseases and wounds and he was carried to and from the court room by four marines. A medical commission had been appointed to examine Wirz and this examination resulted in the conclusion that he could not possibly live longer than two months at the farthest. This information I obtained through a friend and I felt it my duty to impart it to Wirz that he might prepare himself for the next world. This was about two weeks before the end of his trial. He received the information calmly and then made a request of me which I shall never forget. He said he realized that his conviction and condemnation to death was a foregone conclusion and that he had no reason to think otherwise. I agreed with him that on account of the feeling existing in the north he would certainly be condemned to death. He then requested me to call upon Secretary Stanton and say that he was willing to plead guilty to the charges provided that in fixing the punishment the commission would set a date for the hanging far enough in the future to afford him an opportunity of preparing himself for death and of his probably dying a natural death before the day fixed.

"I called upon Secretary Stanton and laid Wirz's proposition before him and made a personal request myself that it be accepted. Mr Stanton thought favorably of it and said he thought the rest of the cabinet would have no hesitancy in accepting it. He said there was to be a cabinet council that day at 1 o'clock, and that he would lay the matter before the cabinet and would inform me later in the day what action had been taken in the premises. After the meeting I called upon him when he informed me that the other members had refused to listen to any such proposition as that made by Wirz. I asked him what reasons they gave and he made this reply. I will never forget it: 'The people of the north demand the blood of some one for the cruelties practiced at Andersonville. Wirz has only two months to live. Let's take this man and shed his blood and by so doing we spare the life of a better man' and then he mentioned the names of three men—Lee Davis and Stephens of Georgia.

"I saw that there was nothing more to be done and I communicated this fact to Wirz who began preparing himself to meet his maker. In less than two weeks he had been convicted was sentenced November 9 and hanged the next day. I felt that Wirz had simply suffered for others and I knew it but he died without a murmur save at the ignominy of the means. Impressed with this belief when I met President Johnson a short time afterward I alluded to Wirz proposition to Stanton, and asked him for my own satisfaction why the cabinet had not favored it as did Secretary Stanton? Mr Johnson's reply was most startling and surprising to me. 'What' said he, 'Stanton in favor of the proposition?' and he seemed greatly astonished. 'Why Stanton was the only member of the cabinet opposed to it. The rest of the cabinet favored it and were about to accept it when Stanton threatened to resign if the proposition was entertained for a moment. Mr Stanton's services could not well be dispensed with and rather than have him resign we allowed the matter to drop.'"

"Did your interest in Wirz cease and here?" was asked by Father Hamilton.

"Not my interest but my inquiries did. The times were troublous and the terrors of Andersonville were too odious at the north to render prudent or possible any righting of the wrong. I have never said anything of this except confidentially to one or two friends, but I will say now that Wirz was sacrificed and that he died to save one of the leaders of the confederacy."

The Hon James Speed attorney general at the time of Wirz trial says he never heard of the proposition described by Hamilton. He says however there were several cabinet meetings at that period at which he was not present. He does not believe the story.

WHACKED GENIUS

A Strange Scene of Mingled Luxury Wretchedness and Squalor

A late Philadelphia special to the New York Times says: The office of Deputy Coroner Powers was filled to-day by a throng of curious people morbidly attracted to the inquest upon the body of Edward Leonard the man who after sacrificing both genius and wealth to his appetite for liquor died miserably upon the bare floor of his own home. A visit to the home of the dead man No. 614 South Eleventh street, revealed a strange scene of mingled luxury wretchedness and squalor. Stretched across two old chairs in the room in which he died lay the coffin containing the body of the former man of fortune. In the library adjoining his gray haired wife was just recovering from the stupor of a prolonged debauch. The house was in wretched disorder. Strewn about the floor and over the bedclothes where the dying engineer had suffered in his last delirium were the confused relics of a $5000 library many of fine octavos torn and soiled. On the mantel stood a beautiful crystal wine service in a cabinet expensively inlaid. It was Leonard's gift to his wife on his return from Europe two years ago.

In strange contrast with these evidences of luxury was the general air of decay and neglect pervading the house the bare patches upon the walls where the bright wall paper had been wantonly torn off and never replaced the dirty crockery and glassware the noisome odors that filled the place from the accumulated dirt and refuse in the cellars and rooms. The gloomy picture was heightened by the forlorn appearance of Leonard's three children given over to the watchful care of the undertaker's female assistant while their mother slept off her debauch. Clara is a bright intelligent girl fifteen years old and Florence and Eddie are pretty children but all bear sad evidences of parental neglect.

Edward Leonard came here from Vermont in 1877. He was the inventor of a patent fire extinguisher and various other machines from the sale of which he derived a large income. He lived in excellent style and maintained three servants in his house. When sober he was an affable and pleasant companion. Drink was his curse. He became worse and worse until no servant would live in his house for any wages. He ceased working at his profession entirely and he and his wife seemed to abandon themselves to drunkenness. They were frequently very noisy and the neighbors complained of them to the society for the prevention of cruelty of children. Finally Leonard went to Baltimore, it was said to enter a reformatory institution but three weeks ago he came back and raved ever since until his death.

DECADENCE IN VERMONT

Rutland Herald

Vermont fairs show better butter and cheese better cattle and sheep than they did forty years ago but the farmers teams do not stand for as good horse stock as they did then there are fewer farms we suspect in Vermont there are as many deserted farms and decayed towns in southern Vermont today as there ever were in our history at least that is the testimony given us by a very intelligent farm bred lawyer who has recently personally visited the towns that touch either side of the Green mountains from the Massachusetts line to Addison county. In Stratton where Webster in 1840 addressed the great whig mass meeting the farm house where Webster spent the night is a ruin and the farm deserted. In the woodland you meet the ruins of old four foot stone walls in Somerset you find in the forest stone walls and the remains of an old highway the decaying abutments of a former bridge across the stream are all that remain of the civilization that was once represented by a church, a grist mill and a country store. The woodland has so encroached upon these deserted farms that our friend is confident there is more woodland to day in the mountain towns of Vermont than there has been at any time during the last forty years. In the old counties of Bennington Windham Windsor and Rutland our informant found he assures us plenty of evidence of deserted farms and decaying towns along either side of the mountain range and these deserted farms are not being reoccupied by any returning wanderer although most of these towns are places of much natural beauty and attractiveness. Among these towns are Readsboro Somerset Searsburg Sunderland Warnsboro, Peru Jamaica Landgrove Weston Plymouth Shaftsbury Winall and several mountain towns in Rutland county. Our friend thinks that towns touching the mountains on either side have been permanently deserted. The future of Vermont if she is to increase henceforth largely in wealth and population lies in manufactures not enlarged agriculture and this is true not only in Vermont but of all New England.

GENERAL MILES FORTUNE

He Missed It by Wanting More than Seven Per Cent. for Money

Boston Special to New York Sun

An interesting bit of personal history just now being talked about is how General Nelson A. Miles missed becoming a millionaire. General Miles was a nephew of the late Nelson Curtis of this city who died two years ago leaving an estate of $1,000 000. The old man was childless and he was very proud of his favorite soldier nephew. A few months before his death Mr Curtis sent for General Miles who was then engaged in an Indian campaign and urged him to resign his commission and come to Boston to live with him. The old man thought his nephew had achieved glory enough in working his way from a lieutenancy in a Massachusetts regiment to a brigadier general's commission in the regular army. It was understood that General Miles should be the sole heir to the great property.

He was unwilling however to leave army life while in the midst of success and he postponed accepting his uncle's offer. But he did send $7000 of his savings to the old man for investment. Mr Curtis put the money into a 7 per cent mortgage.

Not long after it is said General Miles caught the western mining fever and sent for his $7000. His uncle replied that the money was well invested where it netted 7 per cent and that it had better not be disturbed. General Miles reply is said to have been a very cool note to the effect that the money was his and he wanted it. Mr Curtis sent the check for $7000 and remarked to more than one of his friends that if that was the way his nephew handled money he would certainly not have the money to [illegible] him.

The old man soon died and by his will General Miles came in for $500. Some of the heirs General Miles among them contested the will [illegible] was recently settled. General Miles share of the proceeds is $5000.

SECOND NIGHT'S ENTERTAINMENT.—Turn halle was overfilled last night on the second exhibition of the fete of nations. To most of the visitors the sights were entirely new and decidedly interesting. Neglect was made yesterday to mention Dr. P. T. Keene, to whom the stage management was given, for good work, and to Mr. Edward Cockingham, who appeared as the court jester in the French booth. Receipts were liberal and the ladies of Unitarian church may congratulate themselves on the financial and complete artistic success of their entertainment. The latter, however, to be divided equally among the ladies and gentlemen whose personal efforts went to making the fete a success.

DOUBLE TRACK ALL THE WAY.—The track of the Third street railroad is laid as far south as Caruthers street, which will be the terminus for the present. The double track now extends a little beyond Grant street, and as there is no switch between that point and the terminus there will be none of the delays in future which are so common on a single track. The road will be ballasted and in running order in a few days.

THIRD DEATH.—Thursday evening another child of C. F. Pearson, Carrie, aged 5 years, died of scarlet fever, and was buried yesterday. This is the third death in the family this week of the dread disease. The three other children down with the fever are improving, and hopes are entertained that they will pull through.

NEW GYMNASTIC TEACHER.—The Turn Verein have engaged the services of H. O. Schacht, a man of experience as a teacher of gymnastics. A class of thirty young men and another of fifty boys have recently been formed, and still another for girls will be made up.

There have been no transactions in the hop market of late, and there was really no price set for the commodity. Yesterday a lot of Yakima hops was sold to Henry Weinhardt for 22 cents per pound.

Owing to the New Market being engaged for several weeks to come, the Rising Stars will be unable to produce Muldoon's Picnic, and instead have concluded to give a minstrel entertainment and conclude it with a social dance.

The firm of Somerville & Brayman are closing out their business. The store has been leased by Messrs. Hagle, Crowell & Co., who will connect it with their premises by archways cut through the intervening wall, and will put in a hydraulic elevator, etc.

The young people of the First Congregational church of this city, have formed a chapter of the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle. Information of the terms of membership, line of study and literary work for the winter may be obtained of Dr. Templeton or of H. M. Hathaway.

E. Campbell, an employe at Smith Bros. & Watson's foundry, was arrested yesterday on complaint of E. Bookmaster, a laborer employed at the same place, charging him with assault with a deadly weapon, to-wit: a hammer. The matter came up in the police court yesterday, and was continued till to-day, Campbell giving bail in the sum of $120.

It is singular that more accidents are not caused by the number of defective sidewalks around town. Last evening a gentleman stepped through a hole in the sidewalk on D street, between West Park and Eighth, severely bruising and abrading the cuticle of the limb. There are any number of such traps around town and any one of them is liable to furnish a good item at any time, more especially in a dark night.

John B. Drew, street contractor, was arraigned in the police court yesterday on a charge of trespass, preferred by George L. Hibbard, who alleges that Drew carried away some lumber belonging to him, although forbidden to do so. When the case was called yesterday, Hibbard was not present and it was dismissed. Judge Adams appeared as counsel for Drew, which caused some unfavorable comment, as he is a member of the committee on streets and public property.

ACCOMMODATING IMMIGRANTS.

The business men of Cheney propose that persons seeking homes in their locality shall not suffer for lack of hospitality. Not only do they promise to give accommodations, but they have put their promise "in writin'," as follows:

AMUSEMENTS.

"THE WORLD."—Full houses have been the rule at New Market this week, and last night was no exception. Two performances of "The World" this afternoon and evening, close the Grismer-Davies engagement.

A GREAT MELO-DRAMA.—Elaborate printing is being posted on walls and hung in windows, depicting scenes in the great melo-drama "Taken From Life," which will be produced at the New Market theater next Monday evening by the Jay Rial company. The play is reputed to be of intense interest, and abounds in thrilling scenes and incidents, representing country, London, prison, racing and fashionable life. It will be presented exactly as at Wallack's theater, New York city, with all the romantic and picturesque effects. The cast of characters is as follows:

Kate Denby	Louise Rial
Bella	Minnie Phelps
Mary	Ethel Brandon
Jack	Little May Brandon
Walter Lee	H. S. Duffield
Phillip Radley	J. P. Winter
Titus Knot	L. R. Stockwell
William McGuire	J. B Everham
John Denby	James Neill
Boo Channell	J. P. Endres, Jr
Joe Gallon	L. F. Spencer
Marquis	L. M. Martel

Reserved seats are selling rapidly at Cornelius' drug store for the entire engagement.

Truly the most important adulterations to avoid are those which are calculated to injure the "staff of life"—our family bread. We know that merchants who supply their customers with pure articles like Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, retain better patrons, besides the satisfaction of having sold an article that can be used with safety.

HEAVY FAILURE.

Black, Porter & Co., of Halsey, Linn County, Attached—Liabilities About $90,000—Debts in Portland, $40,000.

There was some surprise down Front street yesterday over the report that the well known general merchandise firm of Black, Porter & Co., formerly Black, Pearl & Co., of Halsey, Linn county, had failed. It was known to creditors here, Thursday, that a crisis was imminent, and later in the day they ordered attachments to be levied on the stock. This action was taken by I. B. Dawson, manager of the Merchants' Protective Union, on behalf of the Portland creditors. The liabilities are between $80,000 and $90,000, of which about $40,000 is held by Portland jobbers; $25,000 to $30,000 by San Francisco houses, and the remainder by farmers in the neighborhood. Assets of the firm are nominally $100,000, and it is thought the estate will pay, if properly handled, dollar for dollar.

The house has been in existence for a number of years and has always had good credit. The failure is attributable to stringency of the money market, too large credits extended by the firm, light crops and inability of farmers to be prompt, and want of confidence between San Francisco and Portland creditors. Each thought the other was awaiting the opportunity to attach the stock. It is said that a San Francisco house placed an attachment of $500 upon the stock Thursday morning and this precipitated the action of the Portland creditors.

Black, Porter & Co. were also dealers in wheat and had bought considerable grain since harvest; some on credit. Most of the wheat, however, is stored at Halsey and represents the indebtedness in this direction. The wheat has not been attached. It is proper to say that no taint of dishonesty appears in the failure.

THE EAST SIDE.

An explanation to the finding of an East Portland mail sack at the lower depot, recently, is furnished. By this it appears that one sack of mail was thrown from the car, which the carrier immediately picked up and started with to the postoffice, and that after his departure a second sack, and the one which was left, was thrown out. The blame thus rests with the agent on the car, through whose carelessness the mistake occurred.

A. H. Breyman and wife leave on the outgoing steamer for a brief visit to California.

Mrs. B. Pape returned Wednesday night from a two months' visit to Chicago.

The regular meeting of Relief Hook and Ladder Co. No. 3 of the first ward occurred at the oil cloth factory in McMillen's addition Tuesday evening. It was decided to adopt the uniform of a red shirt with navy blue trimmings and black [illegible] surmounted with the name and number of the company. The meeting adjourned to meet the fourth Monday in November for the purpose of choosing a candidate for the office of chief engineer.

What an Oregonian Saw During a Summer's Trip to the Yellowstone.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

MAMMOTH HOT SPRINGS, Yellowstone Park, August, 1883.

The fact that fifty or more editors and newspaper men are expected here every day does not deter me from fulfilling my promise to give the readers of THE OREGONIAN a brief description of the wonderful things which are to be found in this truly wonderful land. A few hours of needed rest prepared us for our tour of inspection.

The view from the hotel of this terraced mountain, robed in chalky white, is grand and imposing, but a near approach and close examination of the numerous springs, their immense size and the beautiful formation produced by some magic power of the water as it flows over the lovely scalloped rims of each basin and terrace, fills one with wonder and astonishment at the marvelous beauty and grandeur of the scene. It is called Terrace mountain and it is appropriately named, from the fact it is a succession of terraces from base to summit, from each of which flow innumerable hot springs of all sizes and forms imaginable.

As we approach the base of the mountain, a little to the right of the hotel, the first things that attract the attention are the "Liberty Cap" and "Giant's Thumb." The first named is a shaft some fifty feet in hight and perhaps twenty feet in diameter, standing alone on the plateau, and is surmounted with a stone cap or formation resembling the cap of liberty, hence the name. The "Giant's Thumb" is near the base of the mountain, and is being retouched by means of water conveyed from one of the springs to its dome, and allowed to create new and fresh coatings by flowing over its sides.

We started without guide or escort, but at the very outset we met Mr. Harry Horr who kindly volunteered to show us every point of interest, a favor which was promptly accepted and duly appreciated. Our route was up the terraces well to the right, near the Norris geyser basin road. As we slowly advanced from terrace to terrace new beauties were unfolded, which required a halt, and expressions of wonder and astonishment. The summit was far in advance, and our guide seeing that we appreciated his services, as well the grandeur of the scene, determined to so direct our course that the grandeur and sublimity of the surroundings would increase in magnitude as we advanced. Nearing the summit we took the traveled wagon road for half a mile or more, through groves of pine, until we reached Orange geyser, which for beauty is unsurpassed. It is situated on the left hand side of the road, is [illegible] in diameter and perhaps fifteen feet in hight, slightly oblong in shape. From the summit of this formation (for the whole dome is formed from the deposits contained in the water) spouts a geyser, throwing hot water some five feet high. All through this cone protrudes the lifeless bodies of trees with trunks from six to eighteen inches in diameter, showing that the formation is of modern origin. The water ejected from this geyser flows on all sides of the cone, and produces a lovely orange shade, hence its name. Let no visitor fail to inspect this remarkable spot and admire this wonderful formation. A little exertion will enable anyone to reach its summit and make a thorough inspection. A short distance from the Orange geyser is the bathers' pool, in a depression at the mountain, to the right as we advance. It is quite large and is said to be a fine place for bathing.

The Devil's Kitchen is an extinct spring of wonderful formation. A very correct idea can be formed of these active springs by examining the interior of this portion of the devil's domain. We were content to make our examination from the outside, leaving it for others more curious to explore the interior. The fumes were enough so we passed on. A point called the Narrow Gauge attracts our attention. It is a ledge, or backbone, not over three feet in width, and from eight to ten feet in hight. It appears to have been formed by the sinking of the formations on both sides. What is particularly remarkable about this formation is that in the crevice formed in the top of the ledge, four or five inches in width and eight inches in depth, courses a beautiful rivulet of boiling hot water. Where it comes from, and where it goes to, your correspondent knoweth not. We had gained the summit and beheld with wondering eyes those beautiful pyramidic springs, which no pen can describe, and which continually send forth vast volumes of water of high temperature.

In our descent, on the opposite side from that of our approach, we could frequently slide down the terraces, half knee deep in a substance resembling slaked lime. As a general rule the footing is good. It looks very treacherous, but looks are sometimes deceiving. Our guide in conducting us down the declivity was evidently making a cut-off to save time.

As we advanced well to the western slope of the mountain we were greeted with a full view of the famous Cleopatra spring, the largest and most beautiful one of the entire group. It covers nearly an acre of territory, and from our point of observation, some twenty or thirty feet immediately above on the adjacent terrace, it presents one of the grandest sights I ever witnessed. Having satisfied our curiosity from this point, we wended our way to the very brink of this beautiful fountain and meandered its margin for a considerable distance. The coloring of the formation in this spring, as well as on the border or rim, cannot be described.

Much the largest portion of the overflow is discharged on the west side and forms the most beautiful pools and cascades imaginable. The eye will never tire in viewing and admiring the grandeur and beauty of this scene. The whole western slope is covered with these basins, varying in size from three to six feet in diameter formed on the terraces, beautifully fringed with calcareous deposits, most exquisitely formed and delicately shaded with red and yellow. As we stepped from terrace to terrace it seemed sacrilegious to place the foot on such lovely formations, but we were assured that our footsteps would soon be obliterated by the fresh deposits, and that new and even more beautiful formations would soon appear, to be again destroyed by the wandering tourist in his explorations.

We lingered long amid the fascinations of this enchanted spot and departed with the greatest reluctance, slowly wending our way down the mountain slope, over and among the many beautiful basins and terraces, making frequent halts to turn and again view the grand and imposing sight which the God of nature has produced, and which fills the eye and mind of man with wonder and astonishment. I have neither time, inclination or desire to theorize upon the wonderful things here displayed. What has been in the past, or what will be developed in the future, at this particular point, is an open question, and scientists have a grand field for investigation. Evidences are abundant all over the plateau in front and around the hotel from the Gardiner river to the base of Terrace mountain, the present scene of activity, that in former days, ages perhaps, immense springs of equal power and volume performed their mighty evolutions. Immense caverns and bottomless pits, emitting hot steam even at the present time, were visited in close proximity to our hotel. The same formations appear on the plateau; and even far up on the mountain's side among the green timber, as are now found around the active springs, except they are dimmed and disfigured by age. Our explorations during the afternoon covered over three miles of territory, and could be repeated every day for a month and new beauties discovered at each visitation. In order to give our host, Colonel Hobart, time to arrange his camps at Norris and Upper Geyser basin and to perfect arrangements for our transportation through the park, we remained under his hospitable roof until Wednesday morning, being two full days and nights.

During Tuesday we visited the residence of the superintendent of the park, Colonel Conger, which is situated on the summit of a steep round hill, or young mountain, directly in front of the hotel. Curiosity prompted us to climb to the summit of this hill, but we were amply rewarded for the extra exertion forthwith. First, we were greeted with a most cordial welcome from the superintendent in person, who introduced us to his good wife, and our brief stay in their quiet home was made to be pleasant and agreeable. Second, the view from this elevated point was magnificent; far away to the left could be traced among the mountain gorges the course of the Gardiner river. On the right, and fronting the residence of the superintendent, is the most beautiful portion of Terrace mountain. From this point of observation the numerous terraces, basins and pools formed by the overflow of the mammoth Cleopatra spring, with their delicately scalloped edges, etc., are displayed to good advantage. In fact, it is the best point of observation to view these wonderful formations at a distance. A good field glass will bring every object, however minute, to one's notice. Here we could see the various objects suspended on the ladder to be coated with the deposit. Horseshoes, glass bottles of all sizes, china dolls, Masonic emblems, suspended where the water will fall upon them, insures a perfect coat of pure white deposit in forty-eight hours. Metal and earthen or glass substances coat readily and retain the deposit, while wood and leather require longer time, and are liable to lose the deposit by handling. Two days are none too long to spend among these wonderful works of the Almighty. Let nothing except sickness or physical disability prevent the tourist from making his explorations on foot. The hurricane deck of an Indian pony, or the cushioned seat of a carriage are desirable positions in many cases, but in this instance it is like riding around a circus tent when the lemonade stands, the trained horses and clowns are on the inside. Our traveling companion, the lordly "Roscoe," seemed content to view this wonderful work of nature from a respectful distance in a vehicle, for fear that his congress gaiters and imperial trousers might be polluted with the calcareous deposit. It was conjectured by some that the object of his visit was not to inspect hot springs, however grand and imposing in their appearance, or even flowing geysers, but simply to have a quiet, confidential chat with his old chum "Chet" concerning the future prospects as to the presidential succession. In any event the Mammoth hot springs, the wonder of the world, are of secondary consideration to him, and if the other wonders of the park are not sufficiently attractive to arouse his latent enthusiasm, I will conclude that his visit to Yellowstone park has been a total failure. As it has been arranged that we should make the tour of the park in company with his party, we shall note with pleasure the effect which Old Faithful's pulsations produces upon his royal mind. We leave in the morning for Norris geyser basin, and as arrangements must be made for an early start I bid your readers good-bye until after our visit to geyserland, where we expect to be permitted, as weary pilgrims traveling from afar, to offer up our devotions at the shrine of "Old Faithful." ALBANY NOTES.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

ALBANY, Nov. 2.

In one day this week seven families arrived in this city direct from Illinois.

Miss Nellie Porter is visiting friends in Harrisburg, her former home.

Mrs. L. O. Dodge of Portland is in the city, a guest of Mrs. C. D. Simpson.

Mrs. T. J. Stiles, who has been visiting friends in Harrisburg, has returned home.

E. D. Haven will start next Tuesday for San Francisco, where he will make his future home.

The next meeting of the Y. P. T. U. will be held Saturday, November 3, at 2:30 P. M. in the Y. P. C. A. hall.

A masquerade skating carnival will be held in Senders & Sternberg's hall Monday evening, November 12.

Carl Luderman is again slowly improving, and will soon be able to leave his room, should he meet with no relapse.

At the recent sitting of the grand jury, but one true bill was brought in, that against Frederick Wheeland for burglary.

W. K. Price returned to the city Wednesday from Prineville, where he has been stopping during the past two or three months.

Fred Dunning, formerly of this city, but at present living in East Portland, has been in the city several days visiting friends.

October 25, Mr. Charles Williams was united in marriage to Mrs. Rochell Miller. Their united ages are 141 years, Mr. Williams being 67 and Mrs. Miller 74 years of age.

Wednesday evening a very pleasant sociable was held at the home of Rev. S. G. Irvine, in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Stevenson, who recently arrived in this city from Pennsylvania. A splendid evening's entertainment was had, which ended with an excellent collation spread by the ladies of the Presbyterian church.

PROBABLY FATAL ACCIDENT.

Tuesday evening Coll Garrett, a ferryman at Peoria, met with an accident which will probably end in death. He was ferrying passengers across the river when the guy rope broke, which caused the large steering wheel to revolve very rapidly, the hand pins striking him on the head, crushing the skull. Dr. Hill of this city was summoned by telegraph, and immediately went to the injured man's assistance and did everything possible to alleviate his sufferings, but it is his opinion that he cannot possibly recover.

SUPREME COURT.

SALEM, Nov. 2, 1883.

Court met at 11 o'clock A. M., full bench being present.

J. A. Wilson respondent vs. Allen & Lewis appellant. Argued and submitted.

Valtier Wattier respondent vs. John F. Miller et al. appellant. Cause on trial.

Ordered that the court take a recess until 1:30 o'clock P. M.

The Puget Mill Company have on the stocks at Port Ludlow, W. T., the hull of the largest barkentine yet built on the Pacific coast, a vessel of 700,000 feet lumber carrying capacity. She is all planked, and the men are now planing her off and in a month or six weeks she will be ready for sea. The same company are preparing for the construction of a towboat at the same place, to follow the barkentine. This steamer will be one of the largest tugboats in the world and will certainly be one of the most powerful. Her length of keel will be 146 feet, her breadth of beam 26 and her depth of hold 15 feet. She will have compound engines of 24 and 48 inches diameter each and 38 inches stroke. Her engines will be of the same make and size as those of the steamship Victoria, while her boilers will be of steel. It is intended that she shall be fast, while her power will be greater than that of any two boats now on the Sound combined.

A Centerville, W. T., correspondent of the Tacoma Ledger says: The diphtheria is abating. We have had but five cases in town, and two deaths. Mrs. Gresty has quite recovered; the other two are convalescent. Many exaggerated reports have gone abroad concerning the number attacked in and around Centerville. Several of those reported as having diphtheria, seriously ill, etc., have not been sick at all.

The Salem flouring mill recently shipped a car load of flour direct to Helena, Montana.

Mrs. W. P. Keady of Corvallis returned home yesterday after a somewhat extended visit to this city.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Green of this city celebrated on Wednesday evening last the twentieth anniversary of their marriage.

Tom Kelly, for many years a resident of this city, but more recently of the Dalles, is on a visit here for a short time. He has gained some fifty pounds in weight since his residence in eastern Oregon.

His excellency the governor has made the following executive appointments: J. L. Storey of Tillamook, Chas. LaFollette of Sheridan and J. A. Winter of Yaquina bay, notaries public, and Jas. W. Hamill of San Francisco, California, commissioner for Oregon.

Last evening being the second anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Moores of this city, a number of their most intimate friends dropped in to extend their congratulations. Games and other pastimes caused the hours to pass merrily and refreshments added zest to the occasion. The event was a pleasant one throughout, and will be long remembered by those present.

WALKING-STICKS FOR WOMEN.

[New York Morning Journal.]

"What, a woman carry a cane!" ejaculated the reporter in astonishment.

"Women carry canes?" answered the dealer, smiling: "why, of course, why not? It is an established custom in England."

"Are they used for ornament only?" was asked.

"Sometimes but not always. Now, for instance, here is a very prettily polished snakewood. Do you see anything curious about it? No? Well, just look here," and pressing a little catch the top of the cane flew back on a hinge, disclosing a very pretty cologne bottle snugly imbedded in the stick. "The carrying of canes, or walking-sticks, as they are generally called by the fashionables, especially on the part of the ladies, is fast becoming quite a feature on Fifth avenue and Broadway. Every young lady of rank or good standing in society is expected to have a walking-stick with her at all times, partly for protection and partly for ornament. The sticks, as a rule, are made expensive and [illegible] wood. The canes are very thin and generally have some place in the handle for cologne, smelling salts and other trifles."

"How do the prices run?" was asked.

"All the way from twenty-five cents to three or four dollars. Then we can make them cost $50 with very little trouble."

"What makes the difference in price?"

"The fixings, as a rule," answered the dealer. "Then again, it's the convenience of the—Look out how you handle that one, it's loaded."

"Loaded," repeated the journalist, mechanically dropping a lovely ebony stick, having a small gold cap for a head.

"Yes, sir, loaded," said the owner, taking the cane up, "and loaded to kill. See here," and pushing half of the cane down, the man displayed a cartridge of No. 22 cal. over which hung a hammer, or steel rod, which, by a pressure of the little gold cap, flew against the cartridge, discharging it. The whole thing was as complete an infernal machine as any lady would wish to carry at night.

LAND FOR THE INDIAN SCHOOL.

FOREST GROVE, Nov. 1.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A recent letter from the honorable commissioner of Indian affairs to the superintendent of Forest Grove Indian school gives assurance that the sum of $25,000 will be appropriated for the purpose of erecting buildings for the accommodation of the school; also, that the number of pupils will be increased next year to 300. But before any buildings can be erected it is necessary to secure land that shall be deeded to the government. It is desired to secure 200 acres of land for this purpose somewhere within thirty miles of Portland. The land should be near the river or some railroad, and should have a good supply of water, and be adapted to farming, stock-raising and fruit-raising. It must be donated to the government, and need not be improved. It is not the policy of the government to buy land, and an appropriation for that purpose cannot be secured. The sum of $1000 has already been secured by contribution for this purpose, more than one-half at the school. Not more than $3000 will be necessary. The friends of the school and of the cause of Indian education are asked to contribute toward raising this amount. By raising $3000 now the way will be made for the expenditure of $25,000 in building material, which, with the labor of constructing the buildings, will represent buildings worth $50,000. In addition to this $41,500 will be expended next year in the support of the school, and probably more each succeeding year, as it is expected that the school will be enlarged each year to meet the growing wants of the cause of Indian education.

Any parties knowing of a suitable location where land is cheap are requested to correspond with the undersigned. H. J. MINTHORN, Forest Grove, Or.

THE OLD WAR GENERALS.

Those Now Living and Their Present Pursuits.

Correspondence Boston Advertiser.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29, 1883.—"Only 18 years ago that the rebellion closed," said an old army officer to me the other day, "but the generals of the war are fast going out of sight." Then he went on to say, "Meade, Thomas, Hooker, Garfield, Kilpatrick, Burnside and Halleck are dead. The next few years will see that list lengthened. General Grant is well on toward 70. He comes to Washington often, and walks quietly about the streets, with his cigar in his mouth, better dressed than when he was president, and looking as if life agreed with him. Sherman is 64, and he looks older, but the family is hardy, and he is likely to see 1900. The youngest of all the great leaders is Sheridan, now to command the army, and he is but 51. Sheridan was a major-general at 30. Fitz-John Porter appears here every winter, white-haired and broken in frame—a little old gentleman, who looks back to twenty years of disgrace. His old commander, McClellan, now a rotund man, with bending shoulders, has not changed much of late. He is rich, and entertains well in his New York city home, but the activity of his life is over. He likes still to tell of his campaigns. Pleasanton, the hero of a hundred cavalry fights, lives quietly here, and can be found any day reading the papers in one of the offices on Newspaper row. His hair and mustache are white, and his voice gentle as a woman's. You can say the same of Rosecrans, the idol of the army of the Cumberland. He and his wife live, a most unnoticed, on Capitol hill during the time he spends here performing his duties as a California congressman. His complexion is like a youth's, and his hair, with a military cut, white as snow. The man who commanded [illegible] speak. Generals Hawley and Logan are the two other most distinguished generals in congress. Both are 57 years old, but neither has a gray hair. General Rosecrans will be reinforced this winter by an old companion in the western armies, General Slocum of Brooklyn. He has been in congress before. He served, I believe, four years soon after the close of the war. General Sickles is practicing law in New York, and Stoneman is governor of California. Doubleday, who was in Fort Sumter when it was fired upon, lives in New York, and is writing a book; while Humphreys, Hunter and Crittenden may be seen almost any day about this city, where they own fine houses and live handsomely on the retired list. Fremont is no longer rich. He and his wife, Jessie Benton Fremont, are forgotten in crowded New York. The general whom the Vermont troops worshipped, George J. Stannard, with one arm gone and half a dozen wounds, sits up at the capitol during the session, tending the door of the members' gallery of the house. The democrats promise he shall not be disturbed. He is so inoffensive that the pushing women almost overpower him on the days when a crowd visit the capitol, and yet he saved the day at Gettysburg, and fell with three wounds while leading a forlorn hope at Petersburg. McDowell is on the retired list; Don Caples Buell runs an iron furnace in Kentucky; Banks is a United States marshal; Hancock, Schofield and Pope are still major-generals, but the last of them will retire in three years. General Howard is at Omaha, a brigadier. General Terry is the youngest of the brigadiers who won fame in the war. With good luck he will succeed Sheridan in command of the army. General Wright, with benevolent face and patriarchal beard, has turned from war to projects of river and harbor improvement. Gillmore, Parke and Weitzel, once commanding corps and armies, are now in charge of lighthouses and fortifications. Grierson, the famous cavalry general of the western armies, is broiling in Texas with the mounted colored regiment which he commands. They are all getting well on towards the downward track. In ten years there will not be a general officer of the war in active life."

Looking over some old papers in the pension office the other day, the difference between the old-time and present methods of granting aid to soldiers became very noticeable. Now, almost any old soldier easily obtains relief; then it was a matter involving the clearest proofs. In some cases even abject poverty seemed necessary before government interposed to give relief. One case, from the long correspondence and interesting character of the claimant, is a sample of many. The papers are very voluminous. They begin in 1819, when Colonel Paul Dudley Sargent of Sullivan, Maine, asked for a pension. His memorial showed that in 1772 he lived in Gloucester, Mass., where he organized a body of minute-men. From his forwardness in the independent cause he was blacklisted and compelled to flee to Amherst, N. H. Here he organized a regiment of militia, and so ready was he that, before daylight on April 19, 1775, he was on his way to Concord with his command, which afterwards became a part of Washington's army, and was the first body of troops to enter Boston after the evacuation the next March. Here he fitted out the first privateer of the revolution. It carried nine guns and took several prizes, with the proceeds of which Sargent paid his troops out of his own pocket. In June he marched to New York, was in all the battles there, so that his regiment was reduced from 727 men to 197. He took part in the battle of Trenton, and soon after resigned his commission for ill-health, but kept on fitting out privateers, of which he sent forty-seven sail to sea. In later years his property was lost by misfortunes, and at the time spoken of he was reduced to poverty, living upon the scant proceeds of a ferry at Sullivan, the sole use of which had been granted him by vote of the county. The pension was granted at first, but soon taken away, on the score that he was rich. He made an indignant protest, and filed an inventory at the war department, by which it appeared that he was worth $1270, every little item of household furniture appearing scrupulously in the schedule. The pension was refused, although ample testimony was shown that the old veteran, now 70 years old, owed about $2000. In 1823 he made another effort. His ferry had been superseded by a bridge, his occupation was gone, and the schedules annexed to his inventory showed that the scanty property had diminished to $255 of which $200 represented the tumble down house in which he lived, with his wife, three maiden daughters and a granddaughter. His letter to John C. Calhoun, then secretary of war, was most pathetic, and reinforced by the testimony of judges of various courts, to his deserving condition, and of creditors to debts ten times the value of his home. Still nothing was done. The handwriting of the correspondence showed the growing infirmities of Colonel Sargent, who in 1826 sent again in trembling characters "the third and last schedule to be made by Paul Dudley Sargent, a colonel in the revolutionary war. I have not any property, nor any income whatever. The fact is, I have been living for four years on charity and the sale of my furniture, which is now entirely gone." At last, convinced that he was not too rich to be pensioned, at the age of 81 years, and after he had waited in bitter distress so long, the officials granted him $20 a month, but too late to be of much good, for he died soon after. That is the record of the pension given so grudgingly, and withheld illegally from the man who led the first New Hampshire troops to Concord, fitted out the first privateer, and gave all his private means without stint to the cause of independence. It is in striking contrast to the prodigal bounty now shown in dealing with the yet young survivors of the late war.

Louise as a Housewife.

A Montreal correspondent of the Scranton Republican thus gossips about the Princess Louise: Her royal highness is extremely fond of sun, and the early morning visitor is welcomed by flinging back the curtains, "the first thing of the day." Every morning before breakfast the princess takes a walk of three miles over the estate of the government house and the road beyond, walking briskly over the snow in the winter, aided by a cane and accompanied by a favorite dog. She is more fond of sketching and painting than other accomplishments, but she is what the Germans call a notable housewife, and goes into the kitchen every morning to give orders for the day. The Canadian servants did not all like this and rebelled, so her ladyship got out servants from "home" who were more used to the expression of imperious wills. Like many energetic people, the princess is hot tempered, and the servants were disposed to think her as peremptory as the queen in the story of "Alice in Wonderland" who ordered "heads off" at every moment. She sets an example of industry, and carefully considers life quite worth living, as she sets apart for her work or recreation specified regular hours. She has music playing in some part of the house nearly all the time, though the early morning strains are those most grateful to her husband's Scotch ear—the bagpipe. Lord Lorne has his own favorite piper with him. The princess is a good cook, and takes pride in this accomplishment. At the dinners en famille some one pretty, delicious dish is sure to have been cooked under her own supervision or prepared by her own hands. Some time ago a young mother and her babe, who were visiting the princess, were taken ill of scarlet fever caused by defective drainage, they say. None of the servants would go to the sick woman's room, being afraid of the infection. The princess herself cooked all the food and carried it with her own hands to the sick visitor. She made the [illegible], smoothed the pillows, read and talked to her patient, and nursed the mother back to life, though the little one died and was buried in the cemetery near the hall.

NEW BLOOMFIELD, Miss., Jan. 2, 1880.

I wish to say to you what I have been suffering for the last five years with a severe itching all over. I have heard of Hop Bitters and have tried it. I have used up four bottles, and it has done me more good than all the doctors and medicines that they could use on or with me. I am old and poor, but feel to bless you for such a relief by your medicine and from the torment of the doctors. I have had fifteen doctors at me. One gave me seven ounces of solution of arsenic; another took four quarts of blood from me. All they could tell was that it was skin sickness. Now, after these four bottles of your medicine, my skin is well, clean and smooth as ever.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

FRIDAY, Nov. 2.

Clearing weather made outdoor work more pleasant and increased the retail trade. Retailers are buying for the new month, and trade was generally good.

To-night's steamer carries nearly 600 tons freight, including 4286 sks wheat, 120 sks wool, 103 bbls flour and a quantity of hides. Incoming freights are large by water, but are of fair amount by rail. What is now received by steamer is almost entirely purchased in San Francisco, eastern purchases finding their way here by rail.

The Br bark Rowland Hill was surveyed to-day by Lloyd's agent, Captain N. Ingersoll, assisted by Captain Purrington, of the ship Corsica. She was found to have sustained no damage by reason of grounding. There are no new developments as regards her charter.

FREIGHTS—Rumors of the taking of a wooden ship are denied by brokers. The market may still be called dull, yet last rates would probably be duplicated were operators disposed to take hold, and until they are so disposed nothing is expected. Berth room being limited and there being no prospect of an advance, shippers are laying back. The loading movement to-day was small.

WHEAT—Open bids in this market are gradually being raised to the figures being paid in the interior, and $1 55 is possible for round parcels of valley shipping. For eastern it is said that $1 57½ was paid for a large lot ex-warehouse for immediate needs. A steady market rules abroad to-day for cargoes, with spot showing increased inquiry. The New York market is steady, while Chicago shows a fraction advance. Receipts here are again large, and the month will show a good movement.

FLOUR—Movement to California larger. Higher cost of wheat stiffens values and will doubtless lead to an advance.

MILLSTUFF—A firm market is had with slightly lessened receipts.

POTATOES—Market only steady under liberal stocks. [illegible] has sold at 16@18c. Reports from [illegible] note sales of choice at 19c for eastern account, and all advices point to firm markets. Stocks here are in strong hands.

WOOL—The baling by Koshland Bros. nearly finished and will about clean up all the old stocks here. Next year almost all our clip will go direct east and growers will have to be more careful of their fleeces.

HIDES—A press has been received here, and shipments east by rail will shortly be inaugurated. Market only steady and business shows a falling off.

POULTRY—Chickens sold $4 for young and $5@$6 for old. Ducks quoted $6@$7 50; turkeys $14@$16; geese, $8@$9.

MEATS—Oregon cured is a scarce article at present. If eastern meats can be sold cheaper than late ruling prices of Oregon, there is now a large profit to somebody, for values are high and said to be firm. Packers offer 6@7c for pork and expect to put up only a small quantity, because of eastern competition. Either meat can be cured here at a profit or eastern can be sold much lower. Should packers be scared out of doing their usual business, values will not come down and the consumer will have to pay as much as heretofore.

EGGS—Sales made to-day at 45@47½c.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours 5413 ctls wheat, 329 bbls flour, 242 ctls oats, 129 ctls millstuff, 6 sks potatoes, 8617 lbs wool, 160 lbs hides, 3 bxs eggs, 850 lbs hops, 234 bxs fruit, 18 pkgs butter. Also 15,578 ctls wheat, 274 bbls flour, 10 sks potatoes, 12,012 lbs wool, 3706 lbs hides from the eastern section.

SALMON SHIPMENTS—Per str State of California, October 31: Aberdeen Packing Co., 1112 cases.

IMPORTS—Per str Oregon: 433 hf 223 bbls 25 bxs 300 sks sugar, 5 hf 25 bbls 75 cs 294 kgs syrup, 60 cs wash powder, 39 sks beans, 3 bbls 17 kgs pickles, 13 cs yeast powder, 7 bbls 11 cs 124 sks coffee, 50 sks rice, 71 pkgs tea, 40 bls salt, 1041 cs can goods, 11 cs soda and sal, 1 bbl 5 bls meal, 52 cs candles, 27 cs extract, 40 kgs sauce, 143 pkgs spice, 449 bxs soap, 160 kits mackerel, 6 cs candy, 117 tins matches, 76 sks nuts, 1 bbl vinegar, 340 bxs raisins, 20 sks 25 bxs dried fruit, 2 cs 1 bbl prunes, 1 bbl currants, 5 cs lard, 2 cs beef, 5 cs cheese, 16 cs butter, 19 cs cigars, 27 pkgs tobacco, 8 sks coal, 579 kgs nails, 230 sks feed, 7 bls flour sks, 12 bls bags, 5 bls bagging. For Astoria she had 40 sks oats, 235 sks feed, 5 kgs nails, 3 pkgs tobacco, 10 kgs vinegar, 7 pkgs fish, 1 hf bacon, 2 tcs 2 cs hams, 12 cs lard, 5 kgs butter, 88 cs can goods, 100 bxs soap, 14 tins matches, 25 sks salt, 1 bbl syrup.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The Columbia sails to-night.

The Queen of the Pacific sails from San Francisco to-morrow.

The Beda finished discharging and coaled. She goes to Knappton to load lumber for Pisano.

The Glanperts hauled up to McCracken's to-day.

The Coldstream and Antwerp came up this morning. The former dropped anchor off Weidler's and the latter moored outside the Lake Erie and Killochan at Mersey.

The Martaban has cargo well in, as also has the Kapunda and Virgo.

The steamboat Idaho, while docking at Seattle Tuesday night, drove into the wharf, carrying away five piles and damaging her bows.

A correspondent of the San Francisco Bulletin believes the W. H. Gawley was the first vessel to use the barkentine rig. She was formerly the ship Coquimbo, and was partly destroyed by fire, in Esquimalt harbor, in 1850. Early in January, 1861, she made her first trip as a barkentine. She carried a leg of mutton sail on her mizzenmast. The vessel worked well. The Fremont was the next vessel to try the rig, but she would often make sternway, before her bows could pay off, upon going in stays. The correspondent is probably wrong about the Gawley having formerly been the Coquimbo, as she was built at Boston in 1854, and named the Northern Eagle.

TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS, DISORDERED LIVER, and MALARIA.

From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect of the continued use of mercury and potash for the treatment of Blood and Skin diseases; they never cure, and nearly always injure or totally ruin the general health.

Beware

A WELL KNOWN DRUGGIST.

My drug store was the first to sell Swift's Specific. It was then put up in quart bottles, which sold for $5 each. I have seen a great many cases cured by its use, and some who had tried all sorts of treatment. In fact I have never known it to fail when taken properly. I sell a large quantity of it, and for all diseases that are dependent on blood poison or skin humor, it cures.

Pimples or Blotches on the Skin.

And makes the complexion fair and rosy. As for blood taint, there is no such word as fail. It cures cases that have long withstood other sorts of treatment, and without any of those recurring troubles that generally follow mercurial and other so-called cures.

T. L. MASSENBURG, Macon, Ga.

DRY TETTER.

For years I was afflicted with Dry Tetter of the most obstinate type. Was treated by many of the best physicians; took quantities of mercury, potash, and arsenic, which, instead of curing the tetter, crippled me up with mineral poison and rheumatism. The tetter continued to grow worse, and the itching almost made me crazy. In this condition I was induced to take Swift's Specific, and the result was as astonishing as it was gratifying. In a few months the tetter was entirely well, the mercurial poisoning all out of my system, and I was a well man—and due only to Swift's Specific. All like sufferers should take it.

JAMES DUNNING, Louisville, Ky.

WHAT A PHYSICIAN SAYS.

CYPRESS RIDGE, MONROE CO., ARK.,
July 23, 1883.

I have a bright little daughter who will be two years old next month. She has been troubled nearly ever since her birth with a skin disease, which I first diagnosed chicken-pox, but later found it to be some sort of eczema; at any rate it resisted very stubbornly all the different treatments. I procured one bottle of Swift's Specific and gave it to her in small doses three times a day, and in a short while had the satisfaction to see that she was entirely well. I am so well pleased with its effects on her that I shall not only use it in my practice, but I shall administer it to my other children and take it myself.

LOSS AND GAIN.

CHAPTER I.

"I was taken sick a year ago
With bilious fever,

"My doctor pronounced me cured, but I got sick again, with terrible pains in my back and sides, and I got so bad I

Could not move!

I shrunk!

From 228 pounds to 120! I had been doctoring for my liver, but it did me no good. I did not expect to live more than three months. I began to use Hop Bitters. Directly my appetite returned, my pains left me, my entire system seemed renewed as if by magic, and after using several bottles I am not only as sound as a sovereign, but weigh more than I did before. To Hop Bitters I owe my life. R. FITZPATRICK.

Dublin, June 6, '81.

HOW TO GET SICK.—Expose yourself day and night; eat too much without exercise; work too hard without rest; doctor all the time; take all the vile nostrums advertised, and then you will want to know how to get well, which is answered in three words—Take Hop Bitters!

DR. PAUL BRENNAN

IS THE MOST SUCCESSFUL PHYSICIAN ON the Pacific coast in the treatment of all Chronic and Difficult Diseases of the Sexual Organs.

He will guarantee to cure any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease, if the patient follows his advice and treatment.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the FOLLIES OF YOUTH, such as Spermatorrhoea, or Seminal Weakness, or Loss of Perfect Vitality. Nearly two-thirds of all the chronic diseases spring either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by a majority of the Medical Profession.

Persons afflicted by any form of sexual disease or weakness often delay in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to exist, until their constitution becomes corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence. Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances. Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Disease, Skin Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail if they are curable, and if not, he will tell you so.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

Office—Nos. 130 and 131 Third street, corner of Alder, opposite Masonic Hall.

Office Hours—10 to 12 A. M., 2 to 5 and 7 to 8 P. M.

All letters of professional business must be addressed to Dr. Paul M. Brennan & Co., Portland, Or.

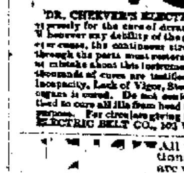
DR. CHEEVER'S ELECTRIC BELT, or Regenerator, is made expressly for the cure of derangement of the generative organs. However any debility of the generative organs occurs, from whatever cause, the continuous stream of ELECTRICITY permeating through the parts must restore them to healthy action. There is no mistake about this instrument. Years of use have tested it, and thousands of cures are testified to. Weakness from Indiscretion, Incapacity, Lack of Vigor, Sterility—in fact, any trouble of these organs is cured. Do not confound this with electric belts advertised to cure all ills from head to toe. This is for the ONE specific purpose. For circulars giving full information address CHEEVER ELECTRIC BELT CO., 103 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.



All those who from indiscretions, excesses or other causes are weak, unnerved, low spirited, physically drained, and unable to perform life's duties properly, can be certainly and permanently cured, without stomach medicines. Endorsed by doctors, ministers and the press. The Medical Weekly says: "The old plan of treating Nervous Debility, Physical Decay, &c., is wholly superseded by THE MARSTON BOLUS." Even hopeless cases assured of certain restoration to full and perfect manhood. Simple, effective, cleanly, pleasant. Send for treatise. Consultation with physician free.
